U.K. Leads ECM Talks On Unity for Europe

LONDON (Reuters) — The foreign ministers of Britain and the six Common Market countries conferred today on a future European political union. The ministers—meeting at a session of the seven-nation Western European Union—were believed to have discussed a compromise solution for European political union put forward by President de Gaulle of France.

De Gaulle, who wants a loose "Europe of the fatherlands" composed of sovereign states, is believed to have the support of West Germany and Italy for his plan.

Host at today's meeting was Foreign Secretary Home of Britain. But the main British speaker was Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath, chief negotiator for Britain's proposed entry into the Common Market.

BONN (Reuters)—Chancellor Adenauer told West Germany's parliament today that a solution to the problem of European political unity emerged during his meeting last week with Premier Fanfani of Italy.

Adenauer and Fanfani were reported to have accepted French President de Gaulle's plan for a loose confederation of sovereign states.

Adenauer, 86, said he hopes the six European Common Market countries will agree on a solution during the coming weeks so that their heads of government can take the first step toward a political union when they meet in Rome in June.

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan refused today to tell Labor MPs what he has proposed for a Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting on Britain's European Common Market negotiations.

He told the House of Commons it would be discourteous to do this until he had had a reply from all the 12 prime ministers.

Commonwealth spokesman said Macmillan was being "futile" about the date.

Reds Get Final Warning On U.S. Nuclear Tests

Still Have Time To Accept Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain gave Russia an apparently final warning today that unless there is agreement on an enforceable nuclear test ban the new U.S. test series scheduled to start late this month "will have to go forward."

In a joint statement released at the White House, the two governments called on the Soviets to reconsider their position on the inspection issue and to "accept the principle of international verification."

"If they will do this," the statement said, "there is still time to reach agreement."

The declaration added: "But if there is no change in the present Soviet position, the governments of the United States and the United Kingdom must conclude that their efforts to obtain a workable treaty to ban nuclear tests are not now successful, and the test series scheduled for the latter part of this month will have to go forward."

It was understood that the U.S. and British leaders were under no illusion that their words would cause the Kremlin to do an about-face in its stiff opposition to international controls, which the Western powers say are needed to make a test ban workable.

But they were known to feel that the Western case for resuming tests should carry with it as much support as possible in world opinion.

The Western case sums up this way:

The Soviet Union broke an atomic test moratorium that had been in existence since 1958 with a series of more than 40 nuclear explosions last fall. Unless the Soviets agree to a test ban with adequate safeguards against cheating, the West must resume its nuclear testing for its own security.

The Soviets have declared they will start still another series if the Americans go ahead with the proposed tests.

NOT PERSONAL APPROACH

President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan chose the joint statement technique in preference to forwarding another direct appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Some U.S. officials said the time is considered too late for the personal communication method.

The statement was not presented as a Kennedy-Macmillan declaration but as one from the two governments.

The 600-word statement reviewed the latest round of U.S.-British negotiations with Russia at Geneva on a treaty to ban the further testing of nuclear weapons.

It said that in the view of the Western powers a treaty without adequate verification to guarantee against cheating would be unenforceable. Therefore, the statement argued, the whole issue turns on Russia's rejection of "the principle of objective international verification."

The declaration obviously was designed to place upon the Soviet Union the responsibility for the resumption of the nuclear arms development race.

Arms Treaty Progresses

GENEVA (Reuters) — The 17-nation disarmament conference agreed today on two-thirds of a draft preamble to a treaty on general and complete disarmament presented by the United States and Russia as co-chairmen, an authoritative source said.

But the source said the U.S. and Russia, after working on the draft preamble for about a week, still were in complete disagreement on two points concerning the wording outlining international controls and the peace-keeping machinery needed in an unarmed world.

U.S. chief delegate Arthur Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin will have further talks on these points and report to the conference.

Mac Belittles Spy Fear By Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia's espionage argument in the East-West nuclear weapons test-ban deadlock seems "almost incomprehensible," Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons today.

"It seems impossible to believe in the sincerity of that argument, although I realize how sensitive the Soviet government is on that question," Macmillan said.

CANT TAKE RISK

Under questioning in the Commons by Opposition Labor MPs, the Conservative prime minister said he could not ask Kennedy to go on with a vague moratorium on nuclear tests and then find the West faced with a third series of Soviet tests.

"This would put us in a most dangerous position."

FOURTH TRIP to the U.S. was started today by Iran's Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. He was accompanied by his third wife Empress Farah who will be seeing the U.S. for the first time. Visit will be a state affair.

Pearson Leads Budget Attack

By VICTOR MACKIE
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Breaking precedent, Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson will take the floor the minute Finance Minister Donald Fleming concludes his budget presentation tonight and the Opposition leader will start discussing the government's financial statement.

Generally it is the Opposition's chief financial critic, William Bendickson, Kenora-Rainy River, who makes the leadoff speech for the Opposition after the budget. But the Liberals are concerned that tonight may be the last opportunity they will have to discuss the budget with dissolution believed imminent.

50-Foot Drop To Freedom By Boy of 9

BERLIN (AP) — A nine-year-old East German boy jumped from the roof of a five-story building into a net in West Berlin today.

Witnesses said the youngster appeared on the roof of a house overlooking Bernauerstrasse, the French sector street that marks the border. The sidewalk is Western territory while the houses belong to the East.

A West Berlin fire rescue squad spread a net and the boy jumped into it, dropping more than 50 feet.

Because so many persons escaped from Bernauerstrasse houses, Communist authorities evacuated them and bricked up windows.

An East German policeman escaped to the West during the night by running through a subway tunnel.

West Berlin police reported. He was a member of the transport police, responsible for patrolling railroad installations.

Information Bureau West, the unofficial Western intelligence agency, reported that a leading East Berlin tennis player, Herbert Schmidt, had defected to the West while taking part in the United Arab Republic's tennis championships. IBW said that instead of returning home, he flew to Frankfurt.

Mr. Pearson accordingly will go on with the criticism of the budget as soon as Mr. Fleming finishes.

Mr. Fleming will start his speech at 8 p.m. (5 p.m. PST) and will get to tax changes about 9 p.m. (6 p.m.)

The pre-election budget is expected to contain features that will appeal to the voters. There may be provision for an increase in family allowances and some slight reductions on the tax load. But with another deficit expected there is little room for the finance minister to make major tax concessions.

Recurrence Of Smallpox Scares U.K.

CARDIFF (AP) — Three women mental patients died of smallpox today bringing the death toll in the South Wales outbreak to five.

The Welsh board of health said there were seven other cases of smallpox, two in critical condition.

All the cases in the latest South Wales outbreak have been elderly women from the area, said a hospital spokesman at Bridgend, near Cardiff.

The threat of a possible outbreak in the English Midlands developed today when a Pakistani was admitted to a hospital there with suspected smallpox.

EXPECTS MORE DEATHS

The Welsh board of health said there was "a particular risk of more deaths among the women because of their frail conditions—both mentally and generally—and their ages."

The last Welsh outbreak killed six persons. It followed an earlier score—extending from London through the Midlands to the industrial north—in which seven died.

Soccer and rugby matches scheduled for this week in South Wales have been cancelled or switched to other grounds because of the new outbreak.

People and Things

(Times News Services)

HOLLYWOOD—The World's Champion Gate Crasher has turned in perhaps his most peerless performance: Stealing the show, before a TV audience of millions, from the world's most accomplished scene-stealers.

Stan Berman, 35, New York taxidriver gifted with more brass than 76 trombones, was the sequel of an otherwise dull Academy Awards show Monday night. He came out of nowhere to out-quip quip-king Bob Hope—in the middle of the Oscar telecast.

Striding authoritatively on-stage as Shelly Winters and Vincent Edwards were presenting cinematography awards, he announced coolly:

"I'm the world's most famous gate crasher. I'm here to present Bob Hope with his 1938 award."

He plunked down a miniature reproduction of the gold statuette—inscribed "to the world's greatest comedian from the world's greatest gate crasher"—and stalked off.

When emcee Hope recovered, he had this rebuttal: "What did we need Price-Waterhouse (Oscar ballot tabulators) for? What we need is a doorman."

Berman's stunt caps almost a lifetime devoted to insinuating himself into situations where he is not supposed to be. It was his second major coup in a month.

He handed astronaut John Glenn Jr. a statue after crashing New York City's giant welcome ceremony on the steps of city hall.

After Monday night's performance at the suburban Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, Berman told reporters: "This time I expected to get arrested."

He was detained briefly, but vanished after telling his story. How did he get past the hordes of guards, with no VIP badge, no press button, no ticket?

"I just pushed my way through the crowd and walked in."

Berman says he has made the acquaintance of three U.S. presidents—Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy—by gate crashing. He says he was the first person to crash the White House. There he met President Harry S. Truman.

Another event was witnessing the wedding of screen star Elizabeth Taylor to Eddie Fisher.

What's his next big gate-crashing effort?

"The winner's circle at the Kentucky Derby," said Berman.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Modesty was the downfall of Gonzalo Romero.

Romero, 27, was arrested early yesterday as he worked at a sewing machine in a costume shop which he told police he entered through a broken window with burglary in mind. He was sewing his torn trousers.

NEW YORK—A truck carrying 400 chickens and 60 turkeys ran afoul of a pillar in Brooklyn and spilled four cases of the birds into the street.

When the scrambling, clucking and gobbling ended after the accident Monday, the truck driver found he was 10 turkeys and 25 chickens short.

"Stew pots," the driver surmised.

CONCORD, N.H.—Don't plunge that lobster into boiling water—just warm him slowly, says Dr. Gordon Gunter of the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory.

In an article in the New Hampshire fish and game department newsletter, Gunter says that contrary to widespread belief lobsters suffer pain when dropped into boiling water.

Since they cannot survive a temperature higher than 100 degrees, they can be cooked humanely by slowly warming the kettle water to that level.

That way, says Dr. Gunter, the lobster "dies quickly and without distress."

CAPE CANAVERAL—That peculiar language known as "Canaveralese" is getting a distinct British flavor during current preparations to launch the world's first international satellite.

American scientists wear "hard hats" around the launching pads. Not so the British: they call them "skid hats"—derived, apparently, from an English law requiring motorcycle riders to wear similar headgear for safety purposes.

To Americans, they are "missiles"; to the British, "miss-evels."

And even those world-famed "Canaveralese" phrases, "A.O.K." and "Go," are taking it on the chin. When one English scientist was asked the status of the U.K.-1 satellite, he replied nonchalantly:

"Oh, it's ticketyboo."

Victorians Win School Music Trophy

CALGARY (CP)—Fifty-eight travel-weary youngsters from Victoria Monday night successfully gave the Calgary Junior Philharmonia its first challenge in the orchestra competition of the annual Calgary music festival.

The Greater Victoria schools symphony orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Dorothy Evans, won the full orchestra competition when it took 90 of a possible 100 points for what adjudicator K. Leighton Brown of Regina called a "sincere and excellent performance" of Rimsky-Korsakoff's Capriccio Espagnol.

The larger Calgary orchestra, conducted by Frank Simpson, earned 85 points for a performance of Jean Sibelius' Finlandia.

The Victoria group, because of a misunderstanding of rules, did not play in the string orchestra competition and unchallenged Calgary won with 85 points.

PLEASURE TO HEAR

Mr. Brown said the solo work of the Victoria orchestra was "nobly performed" despite the "difficulties with which Capriccio Espagnol bristles. It was a pleasure to listen to."

The Victoria youngsters had to play with at least one sleepless night behind them after two train derailments delayed their arrival in Calgary by more than 16 hours.

Their visit marked the first time another orchestra had come to Calgary to challenge the Junior Philharmonia in the music festival, now in its 17th year.

Higher Court Trial Ordered On Rape Charge

A 28-year-old navy man was committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court Monday on a charge of rape.

Preliminary hearing into the charge against Stephen Cassidy lasted most of the day.

He is accused of assaulting a 25-year-old navy wife in her apartment March 16.

The woman, who is expecting her fifth child, told the court a man she recognized as Cassidy entered her apartment through a window while she slept, dragged her into the kitchen and assaulted her.

V.I. 'FACT-FINDING' PLANNED BY PREMIER

Premier Bennett is going on a Vancouver Island meet-the-people tour.

Mr. Bennett said here Monday he plans to continue the "fact-finding tour" he launched last week in the Okanagan.

Mr. Bennett said he hadn't decided on dates, and he wouldn't disclose details of his island tour. There won't be any meetings, he will be travelling on the quiet.

He said he met "hundreds" of people last week.

He didn't ask them specifically what they thought of his latest power moves—legislation passed at the recent session merging B.C. Electric and B.C. Power Commission and barring court action on the B.C. Electric takeover terms.

"They just stood back a little bit," he said with a wave of his hand, and said "We're behind you Mr. Premier."

Haddock to Head Sally Ann Drive

Under the chairmanship of city businessman J. Courtney Haddock, the Salvation Army will appeal to Victorians for $50,000 in a campaign starting May 1.

Mr. Haddock's appointment was announced Monday night at the annual meeting of the Army's local advisory board at the Victoria Citadel.

Other members of the board are: I. C. Dinning, Edward Gudewill, Harold Husband, Frank Norton, Laurie Wallace, Dr. Jack Cruise and Commander J. C. Charles.

Brigadier Clifford Milne said a large number of applications for admittance to the Matson Lodge for elderly men and women had forced the Army to keep Victoria Sunset Lodge open.

McNaughton No Candidate

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton has made it clear to the Liberal constituency organization in Ontario's Grenville-Dundas that he has no intention to seek election to Parliament in the coming general election.

There have been two offers made to Gen. McNaughton to stand for the House of Commons. One was from Grenville-Dundas riding and the second was from Kamloops in British Columbia.

The introduction of the budget is a clear indication that this parliament is now nearing the end of its life. Dissolution might come next week with the election set for mid-June.

The Commons concluded Monday's sitting in 3,000 words of snarling, snapping argument over procedure for budget night.

Government House leader Gordon Churchill suggested there be an understanding the House would sit until 10.30 tonight to give the Liberals a longer opportunity to debate the budget on the night of its submission. Liberal House leader Lionel Chevrier demanded to know if this meant that the budget would not be carried on into Wednesday.

Mr. Churchill said there would be plenty of opportunity for discussion whether or not it was on Wednesday.

DIEF'S COMEBACK

Mr. Pearson sought assurances from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker that there would be "full opportunity" for debate on the budget. The prime minister with a smile said that day after day the Liberals had been clamoring for an election, now they were seeking to run for cover.

The Opposition leader snapped that the Prime Minister's remarks were "irrelevant and offensive."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government would give added sitting time tonight if the House agreed. Business for Wednesday would not be announced until adjournment on Tuesday.

An earlier $5,000,000 suit by American Cyanamid Against Nathan Sharff, an officer of Biorganic Laboratories of East Paterson, N.J., has resulted in a contempt charge against Dr. Sidney Martin Fox, who refused to answer 82 questions.

The suit alleged a conspiracy to obtain unlawfully from Lederle secrets on the preparation of antibiotic drugs. Sharff, the only defendant in the civil suit, has filed a counter suit against American Cyanamid for $300,000.

Europeans Top Actor, Actress

'West Side' Best Movie

By James Bacon

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sophia Loren, Maximilian Schell and "West Side Story" are the top winners of the 34th annual Academy Awards.

Italy's Miss Loren is best actress, Vienna's Schell is best actor. Hollywood's West Side Story is best picture, winner of a near-record 10 Oscars.

Schell won for his role as the defender of Nazi war criminals in Judgment at Nuremberg, reaching the top despite the handicap of starting in the shadow of his famous sister, actress Maria Schell.

Miss Loren won her Oscar in absentia for playing the earthy war refugee in the Italian production, Two Women. Hers is the first Oscar for a role played in a language other than English.

West Side Story, a musical version of Romeo and Juliet set among the teen-aged street gangs of New York, fell just one Oscar short of equalling the record of 11 set by Ben Hur in 1959. Its sweep included supporting awards for George Chakiris and Rita Moreno, costume designing, film editing, scoring of a musical, sound, color cinematography, art and set decorations.

PHRAISES TRACY

Said Schell: "There are many people I can thank, but I must give a special thanks to Spencer Tracy. I played all my scenes off that finest of actors. If I looked good, it was because he made me look good."

The Oscar awards this year lacked the drama of last year's appearance of Liz Taylor, still tottering after a near fatal fight with pneumonia in a London hospital. Too busy in Rome to make the traditional presentation of the best actor Oscar, the beautiful Liz nevertheless came in for a lot of ribbing from master of ceremonies Bob Hope.

Referring to her escapades with Cleopatra co-star Richard Burton, Hope commented:

"It's the first time Cleopatra ever sailed down the Nile to Las Vegas. To think the Italians had to learn realism from us."

"People will go to see Cleopatra to see if the ancient Egyptians lived it up the way they do in modern Rome today."

Other Oscars went to:

Moon River, from Breakfast at Tiffany's, best song.

Robert Wise and Jerome Robbins, West Side Story, best direction.

William Inge, Splendor in the Grass, best original story and screenplay.

Press, Radio For Far-Off Places Urged

UNITED NATIONS (AP) A vast United Nations program designed to bring daily newspapers and radio to the most remote villages of Asia and Africa within the next 15 years was laid before the Human Rights Commission Monday.

The plan was presented by Tor Gjesdal, mass communications chief of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, who reported on a three-year survey carried out at the request of the 104-nation General Assembly.

The cost of the plan was estimated at $3,400,000—about 30 per cent to be raised by foreign loans, investments and grants and the rest to be furnished by the countries themselves.

The minimum aim of the program is to provide 10 copies of daily newspapers and five radio receivers for every 100 inhabitants in any country. Efforts are being made to develop radio receivers which can be set for $5 a set. The program also would seek to build up national news agencies, television and educational film centers.

'Gov't, Country Rocked' By McNaughton's Charges

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Gen. McNaughton's charges on the Columbia River treaty have "rocked the government" and "rocked the country," Opposition members shouted in a stormy exchange Monday that shook the Commons for over two hours.

Cries of "shut up," "sit down" and "dictators" were hurled back and forth across the floor of the chamber as Speaker Roland Michener vainly tried to maintain some semblance of order.

The verbal explosion occurred as Liberal Leader Pearson, supported by the CCF-New Democratic party group, sought to have the regular business of the House set aside for a debate on the statements made by Gen. McNaughton.

The uproar reached a peak when External Affairs Minister Howard Green, disregarding a ruling of Mr. Speaker, persisted in making the point that Gen. McNaughton had been retired because he was over 75 years of age.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker pointing a long lean forefinger at the Liberal front benches said, "There sit the dictators, the petty dictators." This brought the retort from Mr. Pearson that the prime minister was a "dictator" but not a "petty dictator." Mr. Speaker Michener agreed and so ruled, after arguments for and against had been aired in the super heated political atmosphere of the House for over two hours.

'Lollipop Budget' Leaves Sour Taste in U.K. Mouth

LONDON (CP)—The "sweet tooth" budget has left a sour taste in many British mouths.

Angry and bitter newspaper criticism follows Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd's proposal to levy a 15-per-cent purchase tax on ice cream, candy and soft drinks.

Both left-wing newspapers, The Daily Mirror and The Daily Herald, called it a "sucker's budget." Other headline descriptions are "lollipop budget," "Lloyd's allsorts" and "Selwyn's so bitter sweet."

Lloyd anticipated in his budget speech Monday that the new tax would be unpopular with children. It is hardly likely to go down well with the population as a whole. Britons gobble their "sweets" lavishly and the country has the highest per capita sugar consumption in the world.

The Mirror says the budget is both "cowardly and futile" because it slaps a tax on candy but does nothing about the price of cigarettes.

The possible direct link between smoking and lung cancer, says the newspaper, "is the biggest human problem in Britain today."

Almost all newspapers are critical of Lloyd's negative attitude toward Britain's economic development, his failure to provide incentives for exports, and the lack of a full-blooded capital gains tax.

"It would be putting it mildly to say the total effect is uninspiring," says the Manchester Guardian.

There is grudging approval for some of Lloyd's measures—particularly the new tax on speculative profits and the attempt to level out sales tax rates.

But there is little enthusiasm for the treasury chief's insistence that consumer spending must be kept down and that increases in income must be carefully regulated.

Only The Daily Express and The Daily Mail have any appreciative bouquets to throw in the chancellor's direction.

"Much as had been expected," says The Mail. "Nothing much for tears — or for laughter either."

The Express says Lloyd has taken "a sensible but imaginative view of his duties" and produced "a limited achievement but a fine one."

Some political observers saw the budget as a bid to re-capture the affections of Britain's growing middle class, which had been showing signs of drifting to the resurgent Liberal party.

The General's Case

GENERAL McNAUGHTON HAS added the final element of chaos to the Columbia hydro scheme. Having taken a major part in negotiating the Columbia treaty, he now announces that it would sell Canada "down the river" and "skin it alive."

If that is his view, why didn't he express it before the Canadian government signed the treaty and the United States Congress ratified it? If he felt so strongly that the treaty was a ruinous bargain for Canada why didn't he resign from the Canadian chairmanship of the International Joint Commission and force the issue into the open instead of keeping silent until the government retired him?

The silence and then the public protest of General McNaughton are extraordinary but his attack on the treaty must be carefully considered by the Canadian Parliament and people, even if the hour is late, perhaps too late.

Certainly Parliament should not ratify the treaty until it has heard General McNaughton's testimony and a committee of the House of Commons has had the opportunity to cross-question him at leisure.

Actually, of course, the government does not intend to submit the treaty to Parliament in advance of a general election. It will be lost in the political rush with many problems of equal importance. After the election, however, the present or an alternative government will be compelled to meet General McNaughton's criticisms and, if they are valid, will be bound to re-negotiate the treaty with the United States, if that is possible.

It may be impossible. The United States thinks it has given Canada a generous bargain, including half the downstream power created by Canadian upstream dams. Moreover, it has ratified the treaty and has been assured by the Canadian government that our Parliament will do the same, once the dispute between Ottawa and Victoria has been settled. Under these conditions it will be extremely difficult for the Kennedy government to open new negotiations and secure the approval of the Congress for a new treaty.

But the attempt should be made, after the election, assuming that General McNaughton's objections are valid. Mr. Pearson already has promised to make it if he forms the next government. The Diefenbaker government, however, may be unwilling to make it since it has staked its prestige on the existing treaty. To propose a different bargain it must admit that it erred from the beginning, as it undoubtedly erred in signing the treaty before it had reached full agreement with the erratic government of British Columbia.

What, precisely, is General McNaughton's objection to the treaty? He has not said publicly but has said often in private that the Kootenay River should be diverted into the main stream of the Columbia. This would provide a maximum production of power within British Columbia but it would deprive the United States of a large potential production on the Kootenay south of the border and eliminate the Libby dam in Montana.

As part of its price for the treaty the United States rejected the Kootenay diversion and insisted on the chance to build the Libby dam. A further objection to the treaty, from Canada's viewpoint, and possibly a more serious one, is the proposed inundation of the rich valley surrounding the Arrow Lakes.

Why, it may be asked, did Canada agree to abandon the Kootenay diversion and to accept the flooding of the Arrow Lakes margin? It did so only because, after many years of negotiation, it could secure no better terms from the United States.

What reason has General McNaughton to assume that the United States will accept any different terms when it does not require the development of the Columbia, north of the border, for its own purposes, when it depends mainly on local nuclear power for its own future needs?

General McNaughton offers no reason for this assumption but the possibility of a better bargain can be explored only if a new approach is made to the United States. None will be made, we may be sure, in the confusion of a Canadian election campaign. Afterwards the Diefenbaker government, or its successor, will have to make it or ram through Parliament a treaty which the most eminent Canadian negotiator considers unsound.

The French Vote for Sanity

FRENCH SENTIMENT ON THE Algerian situation has been strikingly demonstrated by a landslide approval of President de Gaulle's cease-fire plan. The referendum results likewise indicated French approval of Algerian independence, which will be the final phase of the de Gaulle program.

The voting was not only a reaffirmation of French sanity, welcomed by the world after the many months of madness represented by the fanatical Secret Army, but an unqualified victory for General de Gaulle himself. He is now considering the advisability of calling a general election to take advantage of the tide.

It has been noted, however, that the "yes" vote—some 90 per cent of the ballots—did not represent only de Gaulle supporters. Some sections of the public—particularly the Socialists and Communists—voted for the Algerian settlement but would work even harder to overthrow the President's rule.

General de Gaulle's administration has seen an increasing concentration of political power in his hands; he has repeatedly called for personal authority and been given it. This appears to have solved some of the problems facing France—in fact, in many cases, has apparently been the only way. But democracy has suffered as the President became more powerful.

Dictatorships, even benevolent ones, leave a dangerous vacuum when they are terminated. The very solutions to France's problems may therefore be preparing an even greater danger for the future—a prospect which neither Europe, committed to the Common Market, nor the free world can view without great concern.

Perhaps the President's greatest gift to France, having brought some order out of the chaos that greeted him when he assumed office, would be to divest himself of his powers in orderly sequence, and leave France with a strong parliamentary government when he retires.

No Tap to Control B.C. Trade

IT IS EXTREMELY DOUBTFUL that the big Weyerhaeuser Co. will succeed in getting the sort of control tap it wants on the flow of British Columbia lumber into the United States. But the Weyerhaeuser gesture illustrates two points of vital concern to Canadians.

It illustrates the type of powerful lobby that President Kennedy faces in his low-tariff policies, and it should bring home to Canadians how one of their own restrictive trading devices works when the shoe is on the other foot.

Weyerhaeuser wants voluntary quotas on Canadian lumber exports to the United States; joint action by the two nations to increase exports by both; bilateral U.S.-Canadian action on monetary exchange—when the U.S. lumber industry is adversely affected—and adoption of U.S. practices and rates on Canadian railways.

The point that worries Weyerhaeuser is the large share (11 per cent) of the U.S. softwood market enjoyed by British Columbia.

Actually, British Columbia's competition in the American market is fair, Canadian costs are the highest, except for the United States, in the world. Canada cannot be expected to submit to any restrictions it can avoid in selling its forest product. Nor is Weyerhaeuser, a giant concern in a strong American industry, in much of a position to plead for concessions for survival.

The United States timber lobby will nevertheless press its case in Washington—as will many other industrial lobbies averse to the freer trade policies for which Mr. Kennedy calls. These special pleaders will not be concerned with the fact that Canada, with one-tenth of the American population, is selling to the United States upwards of a billion dollars less a year than it is buying from that country.

The Weyerhaeuser proposals are absurd. They should, however, remind Canadians—who sell to all trading nations, except the United States, far more than they buy from them—how the "voluntary quota" arrangement must look to the Japanese.

FROM WASHINGTON

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

They Hunger for a Sure Sign From Canada

THE Canadian government's position, or lack of position, on a world-wide tariff reduction can be summarized, on the highest possible authority, as follows:

Hutchison

Canada does not know whether Britain will enter the European Common Market. It cannot foresee the outcome of President Kennedy's tariff initiative in the United States Congress and therefore it can frame no concrete policy of its own. Moreover, so the official reasoning goes in Ottawa—Canada must deliberately repress its enthusiasm for the president's low-tariff policy lest, by speaking out, it embarrass him.

For if Canada were to announce that it regarded that policy as advantageous to this country then its statement would be seized by the protectionists of the Congress and used as a club to beat the administration.

If the policy promised gains to Canada, the protectionists would say, it must promise losses to the United States. Hence the Canadian government's muted endorsement of the Kennedy program.

Quite Absurd

In official Washington it can be said with assurance, this rationalization of Canada's ambiguous posture is regarded as quite absurd. High officers of the American government, and leaders of both houses in the Congress told this reporter that they would ardently welcome and are eager for some sure sign that Canada actually intends to join the United States and western Europe in removing the barriers to international trade.

Such a commitment, they said, would greatly assist them in pushing the president's program through the Congress. Since Canada is a primary factor in American trade policy, its vigorous support would strengthen the program in American politics at a critical moment.

The Canadian government protests that it has already blessed the President's initiative but the blessing has sounded pitifully weak in American ears. Every word uttered by Mr. Fleming on this subject has been noted and carefully analyzed in Washington. His speeches are much more familiar to American officials than to most Canadians but they add little to the knowledge of the Congress or the confidence of the administration.

Naturally, no one expected that the Canadian government would propose, at this time, any detailed change in tariff policy. No one expected Canada to give away in advance any tariff concessions until it could negotiate for reciprocal concessions among its foreign customers after the Congress had ratified Mr. Kennedy's legislation. On two counts, however, the Canadian attitude is disappointing to the United States.

Substantial Bargain

In the first place, Canada seemed ready, at the opening of last year's GATT negotiations, to make a substantial tariff-reducing bargain but these apparent intentions were later whittled down to a very small sliver. The United States, on the contrary, went about as far as the president's existing power of tariff reduction would permit and the European Common Market responded in the same spirit.

At the same time Mr. Fleming, in his desperate attempt to undo the political damage suffered by his government at the Accra conference, was giving his tepid welcome to Mr. Kennedy's program. It was satisfactory, from the American point of view, so far as it went but it did not go nearly far enough to convince the United States government that Canada really wanted to see tariffs generally reduced on a broad and deep front if this required any serious Canadian concessions.

There remains in Washington the gnawing suspicion that Canada will be happy to share the advantages of any tariff reductions between the United States and Europe—reductions that must apply to all members of GATT—but is unwilling to make any sizeable reductions of its own.

Hence the private and lately the public warnings of the American government that all the great trading nations like Canada must make their fair contribution to the general goal of freer trade. The answer, in Ottawa, is that the Diefenbaker government fully intends to make such a contribution but this is said in such a restrained voice and in such small print that it fails to reassure the United States.

Master Politicians

Besides, the master politicians who control the American government are well aware that an impending election makes any statement of future Canadian policy highly unreliable. There is no guarantee that the Diefenbaker government will be re-elected or, if it is, that it can resist the protectionist interests on which it depends so largely for reelection.

On the other hand, Mr. Pearson's advocacy of an Atlantic trading community, open to all nations—a project which he broached more than four years ago when few would listen—is well understood and appreciated in Washington. But of course no official American spokesman can even mention it publicly for fear of involvement in Canada's domestic politics.

At any rate, Canada's present straddle on the tariff fence deeply disturbs the United States when its government has boldly sounded the advance toward freer trade throughout the free world.

What worries our neighbors is not so much the language of Canada's official statements, though they are certainly muted and vague, but the spirit behind them, the obvious lack of any real enthusiasm for the president's grand design, the reluctance of Ottawa to commit itself fully to anything, on one side or the other. But as another dispatch will indicate, the tariff issue is not the only, or even the main cause of today's secret friction between Washington and Ottawa.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Siren-Happy

I strongly suspect that about 90 per cent of the siren noise and flashing lights indulged in by the drivers of ambulances from our rural areas is unnecessary.

The drivers in most cases are volunteers, giving generously of their time. In some cases too, the patient is in dire straits and in need of immediate attention at our city hospitals.

My guess, though, is that the latter are in the minority, and that the driver indulges in a spectacular show simply because he can get away with it. There should be some control exercised.

SICK OF NOISE.

Foul Bay Compromise

Re the hassle over Foul Bay Road, has the obvious been considered? Why not change Finnerty and Henderson to University Way retaining Foul Bay Road in all its pristine glory?

"COMPROMISER."

Garbage Complaints

Complaints have been made regarding the disposal of garbage in Saanich. The private garbage collection and disposal service in Saanich probably operates primarily for profit and is not essentially in business to protect the health of the public.

Taxpayers must realize that the longer a private garbage collector retains his franchise for this municipal operation, the greater will become his control; because his investment in equipment and experienced workers enables him to be the only contractor capable of tendering for this work on a competitive basis.

The best garbage collection and disposal services will only be maintained where the operation is under the complete control of the municipality and the sooner Saanich voters wake up to this fact the better.

One View of Deficits

In reference to your editorial about the CNR deficit and the attention drawn to the members of the railway union who may want a pay raise this year, something seems to be missing from the story given us on the 27th.

Out of a deficit of $67.3 million for the CNR, the Saskatoon Star Phoenix of March 23 lists an innocent looking little item of "fixed charges" amounting to 62.5 million Canadian monetary units. These sound suspiciously like interest payments on old debts.

Because Marxian economics, in comparison to the boss' variety, could be paralleled to a view of the Olympics on a clear day in relation to a pea-soup fog, we prefer to use this method of evaluation of yet another loss to the "public" of Canada.

We arrive then at the conclusion that as interest, along with dividends and rent are all unearned income, surplus values or gross profits; that instead of a deficit of $67.3 millions, the CNR had one of only $4.8 millions, or, without the federal government interim payment of $28 million, an operating deficit of $39.3 million.

What interests us is that people who contributed nothing to the operation of the railway received $62.5 millions from it last year. We hope the railway worker, as the alarm clock rouses him to another day of duty on the line that if he does think about a small increase in his subsistence allowance, that he also thinks about those whom he helps to support in splendid idleness in such places as Acapulco, Florida, Palm Beach or the Riviera.

ALGIERS:

New Air Of Madness

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

FOR a long time, for seven years in fact, the story from Algeria has been an ugly one. It has changed lately; now there is an element of hope in it. There is also a new air of madness, of pointless manic activity that almost defies analysis.

The political restoration that should follow the Evian agreement between the French Metropolitan Government and the insurgent Muslim leaders of Algeria is still in its tentative exploratory stages. The actual daily death lists have been startlingly reduced and yet the killing continues with a new suicidal ferocity.

The story from Algeria has become a list of "incidents" and reporters have become old-fashioned ambulance chasers. From time to time mortar shells arch up over the cities of Algiers and Oran and land accurately enough on crowded squares.

Taxis are toppled, orange stalls spilled across the pavement, and men, women and children whose representatives have signed a cease-fire are torn apart. For the most part, it is Muslims that die in this manner, though a new and indiscriminate lavishness has entered into this semi-professional activity. Last week, in Algiers, "they" mortared a middle-class suburb where Christians and Muslims live side by side.

There are the explosions of plastic bombs which hardly cause comment any longer. Down in the poorer shopping centres of Algiers, almost one shop in six has its steel shutters down, but the shutters are twisted and pierced and you can see inside a despairing litter of glass and broken wood. Any shop may be chosen at any time for this treatment, and of course it usually means ruin for some small businessman.

Classical Terror

Or, again last week, some young men went into a tuberculosis clinic and murdered 10 Muslim patients, most of them in their beds, one or two as they fled in their nightshirts down the concrete paths of the small hospital garden. This was pure, nihilistic, classical terror. It left behind it a dozen beds darkened with blood and bloody footprints down a passage that led only to another patch of blood. And in leaving, the young men blew up a wing of the clinic that is run by Muslim and Christian doctors.

Terror, assassination, cruelty and the temporary lifting of the rules of civilized life have played their part in almost every liberation or independence movement. In retrospect, they can be said at least to have served a purpose. This cannot be said now in Algeria. The cause of the killers is irredeemably lost.

The people who take part in this strange violence are, of course the "pieds noirs," the poor, white, permanent settlers of Algeria. They came here in the first place to avoid the grinding poverty of southern Spain, of Corsica and Malta. Only about 20 per cent of them have recognizable French names. And in the past they were subjected to callous exploitation by the great companies of Algeria. They have become a people in their own right.

They are tough, callous and clanish. Their men consciously cultivate an air of virility, even of sexuality. The girls are casually provocative. In youth they are among the most handsome people in the world. They take an animal joy in being alive and young, but their youth is brief and the sickness and coarseness of age close in all too swiftly. They delight in the sun, in exercise, in individual achievement. They resent discipline. They make poor soldiers, but they are perfect material for a clandestine resistance.

They are not a logical people, but emotional and mercurial. They can get joyously drunk on rage. They must feed every chance of self-importance and it is only too clear that they take a physical pleasure in violence and have few inhibitions against indulging themselves in this delight.

Abnormal Psychology

The situation in Algeria calls more for a specialist in abnormal psychology than for a political commentator.

Before the Evian agreement, the violence was designed to cow the Muslims and smash the National Liberation Front (FLN) and compel the French authorities to act on the settlers' behalf. It failed on all counts.

After Evian its purpose was to smash the agreement, to compel the Muslims to retaliate so that, again, the French authorities would have to act and on the side of the pieds noirs and so destroy the agreement. And this, too, is failing.

Now, when some specially brutal incident occurs, FLN officials arrive to keep their own supporters calm and in order. It is an astonishing exercise in national self-control. It compels admiration. It is forcing the French, for very shame, to act more and more against the terrorists.

Logic has fled the poor whites in Algeria and the rebellious generals seem to have lost control. The first sign of any hostile reaction here is that the more responsible settlers are beginning to blame the Communists for the worst incidents. It is as near to a rejection as they can yet come.

Authorities and the Muslim leaders are determined now on a settlement and that the "incidents" are really only incidental to what is happening here. One dares to foresee that in a few months the young men will be back where they belong, in their workshops and offices, and on the beach displaying their muscles to the girls.

Lawrence of Arabia once told Lady Astor, "I would rather visit Shaw than read any book or hear any music on earth." And Einstein said of him, "By holding the mirror before us, Mr. Shaw has been able, as no other contemporary, to take from us some of the heaviness of living."

South Viet Nam Launches Clean-Up of Red Pockets

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam, on the offensive, has begun the job of hacking apart great pockets of Communist resistance dotting the country.

During the last month, the government, supported by U.S. advisers, equipment and transportation, has been hurling forces of up to regimental strength deep into strongholds of the Viet Cong.

The pro-Communist guerrillas are fighting back and casualties on both sides have sometimes reached 1,000 in a week. The war is apparently moving toward a showdown—but the end could be years away.

A key problem is finding the Viet Cong in large enough groups to make massive operations fruitful. Certain sections are almost wholly dominated by the Viet Cong, but even in these the problem of finding large units is acute. Improving intelligence facilities have helped.

So has the new mobility U.S. helicopters are giving Vietnamese troops.

Estimates of Viet Cong strength and location depend partly on definition. The regular, full-time guerrillas are frequently shifted.

MANY HELP PART-TIME

Intelligence estimates of total numerical strength vary widely, but well-informed U.S. observers feel the Viet Cong probably has 16,000 to 18,000 hard-core fighters, plus many additional part-time supporters.

Most of their strength is concentrated in the southern third of the country, particularly in five large pockets. One of the most stubborn begins about 35 miles north of Saigon. This heavily forested zone is virtually free of government control. It is referred to by the Viet Cong as a "liberated area."

Another stronghold is the marshy region comprising several provinces along the Cambodian frontier. Whether the Viet Cong actually maintains bases in Eastern Cambodia's forests is a subject of argument.

The Viet Cong apparently is paying no attention to the Cambodian border. It flies across the line whenever pursued. Government forces and aircraft have occasionally crossed by accident, adding tension between neutralist Cambodia and its pro-Western neighbor.

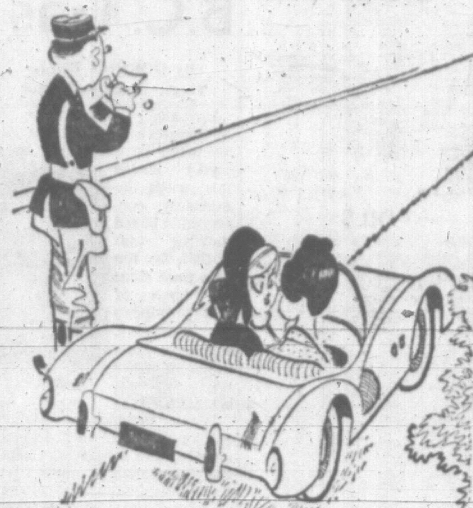

IN RED HANDS

The largest Communist stronghold in the south is at the tip of the country—a wilderness of jungle, mud flats and waterways. The principal town, Ca Mau, and a handful of fortified villages are fairly free from Communist infiltration. Most of the countryside is securely in Communist hands; Viet Cong training camps for recruits have been set up.

Virtually the entire 900-mile frontier joining South Viet Nam to Laos and Cambodia is believed to be infiltrated at least part of the time. The unmarked border mostly passes through rugged terrain. Effective closing of it is impossible without deploying prohibitively large numbers of troops as guards.

Latest figures available show that in 1960 cancer killed 12,608 men and 10,537 women. The most common type of cancer among men was lung cancer, from which 2,223 died. The most common type among women was breast cancer, which killed 2,111 women.

QUIT NDP OR QUIT ARMY B.C. RESERVISTS ORDERED

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge complained in the Commons Monday that two non-commissioned officers in a British Columbia militia unit were ordered to resign from the New Democratic Party or get out of the militia.

The CCF-NDP House leader asked Defence Minister Harkness if any orders had gone out that militia men must stay out of the NDP "and abstain from all political activity" on behalf of that party during their off-duty hours.

The defence minister said no such instructions have gone out from army headquarters. Militiamen were not barred from political activity.

Mr. Herridge said a Lt.-Col. Reynolds, commanding the 17th Field Squadron of the Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Engineers (militia), "demanded that a captain and two NCOs resign their membership in the New Democratic Party and submit proof of their resignations to him in writing."

The captain had "severed an enjoyable association in protest against this infringement of his civil rights as a Canadian citizen."

Mr. Harkness said he knew nothing about it. He said members of the regular army are forbidden from taking part in politics but "no such prohibition exists with respect to militiamen."

Outside the Commons, Mr. Herridge identified the men involved as Captain The Rev. W. B. Mundy, NDP federal candidate in Kootenay East who was chaplain of the unit, and two members of the NDP Club of Creston, B.C.

The specialist MP showed reporters a letter from Capt. Mundy protesting the action.

Gerald Waring

... REPORTING

OTTAWA — One of the government's fondest hopes over the last year was that it would be able to ease testy old Gen. Andy McNaughton out of office without an explosion.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Justice Minister Fulton were hooked on the horns of a dilemma. They knew, as did I and other persons who had talked privately with the general, that McNaughton rated the Columbia River treaty with the United States as a sellout of Canadian interests.

They knew that so long as he remained chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, he would be bound by the traditions of the public service to refrain from denouncing the treaty publicly. But they also knew there were two places where McNaughton would be constrained to answer freely, fully and publicly any question within his competence that might be put to him. Those places are the external affairs committees of the House of Commons and the Senate.

The explosion might have come a year ago. However, before McNaughton could be called to give the Commons committee his views on the Columbia treaty he was taken ill and hospitalized for the first of two operations that kept him out of the government's way until after Parliament was prorogued.

They tried to butter him up. "The greatest tribute should be paid to Gen. McNaughton by Canada" for his work on the Columbia, said Justice Minister Fulton on Feb. 13, 1961. "The greatest credit must be given to Gen. McNaughton," he repeated.

But they grossly misjudged their man—just as, a year ago, they had grossly misjudged governor of the Bank of Canada, J. E. Coyne.

McNaughton, apparently fully recovered from his illness, was looking forward with considerable relish to his appearance before parliamentary committees this session. The government was anything but keen on the prospect. So on April 3 Diefenbaker announced McNaughton's "impending retirement" at age 75. The general, he said, had "agreed to continue in office until after the forthcoming anniversary meeting" of the IJC, which was held in Washington last week.

The impression conveyed by Diefenbaker's words is that this was a normal retirement requested by McNaughton because of age. "I was removed," snapped McNaughton.

Although technically his retirement does not become effective until April 15, by Diefenbaker's words McNaughton ceased to be the Canadian head of the IJC the moment the IJC meeting at Washington adjourned last Thursday. He didn't wait even to get back to Ottawa before castigating the treaty as a sellout.

Why, I asked McNaughton months ago, don't you resign as an expression of your opposition to the treaty?

His reply was to the effect that by working from within he might still influence the government against certain aspects of the treaty before it was too late.

Whether he was right or wrong no one can say positively. Such decisions involve both judgment and conscience.

More perplexing is why Diefenbaker fired McNaughton at this particular time. If Parliament is on the brink of dissolution, there will be no meetings of the external affairs committee before the election. So seemingly either there is to be no June election, despite all the omens, or Diefenbaker has made a blunder of the greatest magnitude by precipitating McNaughton's damaging charges only two months before the election.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

They Prefer Warm Sendoff

It is time now to sow squash, marrow, cucumber and melon seed indoors.

These particular plants are all quite susceptible to frost, and prefer warm conditions in which to grow. While they are small they make little growth—outdoors during cool days or nights.

However, if the seed is sown indoors at this time, the resulting plants can be transferred to the open garden by the end of May if the weather has become settled then, or held over until the first week of June if necessary.

By that time the plants will be well established, and will be ready to make a fast getaway. Sowing the seed outdoors by the end of May would result in the plants not being far enough ahead to produce fruits during the warm weather. Occasionally, a season occurs when the outdoor sowing is successful, but it is wisest not to rely on such a long chance.

To avoid disturbance of roots, which all of these plants (called, collectively, "cucurbits"), resent, the seeds can be sown two in a three-inch pot, or two in three-inch veneer plant band. After germination, remove the weaker seedling, leaving the stronger to develop with plenty of space. In the event of a second seedling appearing some time after the first, remove the second as soon as it shows.

Keep the seedlings in a sunny, warm place protected from cold winds and cool nights, but harden-off gradually to outdoor conditions during the last two weeks before planting in the garden.

INFLATION HITS GAYWAY

SEATTLE (AP)—Inflation hit the gayway area of the Seattle World's Fair Monday. Officials announced that prices on 17 of the 19 attractions have been raised.

Under the new schedule three rides will cost 50 cents each, 14 will be 35 cents and two 25 cents. Previously only one had been listed at 50 cents.

The change also made it necessary for the fair to destroy 2,000,000 gayway tickets.

Frederic V. Schumacher, director of operations, said the increases were approved "to make the prices more realistic in relation to the capacity of the individual rides."

CANADA EXHIBITS AT WORLD FAIR COVER WIDE RANGE

SCIENCE PLAYS KEY ROLE

SEATTLE (CP)—Canada's official contributions to the World's Fair opening here April 21 cover fields from science and industry to the arts.

Unofficially, Canadians are expected to help keep the turnstiles clicking at the $100,000,000 exposition with authorities here confident 1,500,000 of the fair's estimated 10,000,000 visitors will come from Canada.

Canada's national exhibit, featuring "Canadian science and industry serving mankind," was among the first completed on the 74-acre site. Glen Bannerman, commissioner-general for Canada at the Seattle fair, said purpose of the display is to emphasize the fact that Canadian scientific achievements have made significant contribution to the knowledge of science and its practical uses throughout the world.

The display covers 12,000 square feet in a pavilion surrounding the 3½-acre Coliseum, which houses the theme exhibit of Century 21.

SATELLITE DISPLAYED

It will contain, among other things, a prototype of Canada's Black Brant rocket, designed to explore space, and the Canadian Tropic Sounder satellite, developed by Canadian scientists for firing aloft later this year in co-operation with U.S. authorities.

Examples of new transportation facilities and equipment, such as a capsule-carrying pipeline, a model of the aerobay built at Toronto's Malton Airport for jet aircraft use, and the Big Wheel, northland vehicle designed to cross land, water and muskeg with equal ease, also will be on view.

Aerial photography and maps will be exhibited along with scientific achievements in medicine, including the electron cancer treatment machine developed by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

Canada's display in the arts will be given its full force Sept. 10 to 15, set aside by the fair as Canada Week.

PRESENT GELINAS PLAY

Gratien Gelinas, Montreal author-actor-director, and his Comedie Canadienne will present seven performances of his Bousille and the Just. The Vancouver Chamber Orchestra of the CBC, with Toronto's Lois Marshall as soloist, will give several concerts. More than 600 personnel of the Canadian Navy, Army and Air Force and the RCMP will take part in a week-long military tattoo in Century 21 Stadium.

The RCMP's musical ride will be a part of the show. The RCAF Golden Hawks aerial stunt team also will perform during Canada Week.

Increasing importance of northeastern B.C. natural gas resources is underlined by a report issued this week by Alberta's conservation board showing that in 1961, for the first time since the birth of that province's gas industry, reserves have failed to make any appreciable gain.

The Alberta figures show marketable gas reserves at the end of last year as 33 trillion cubic feet, up only 0.3 per cent from 12 months earlier. This government estimate, incidentally, is almost five trillion cubic feet higher than that recently released by the Canadian Petroleum Association.

The latest conservation board appraisal showed re-examination of existing fields plus new discoveries, that added some 600 billion cubic feet to reserves last year, but this increase was virtually nullified by the amount of gas produced during the year.

NO POLICY CHANGE

MONTREAL (CP)—The character, policies and management of the Foundation Company of Canada Ltd. will not be changed as the result of Slater Steel Industries Ltd.'s recent purchase of at least 42 per cent of Foundation's common shares, president Lloyd J. McGowan said in a letter to shareholders Monday.

Mr. McGowan said meetings between the directors of the two companies last week "produced an attitude of harmony." Slater Steel would be "adequately represented" on the board of Foundation, although there would be no change in the general policy of the company.

New Role Urged for Canada Bank

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin said Monday the federal government should handle its own financing and let the Bank of Canada concentrate on monetary operations.

In this way the provinces—so far as their credit ratings would allow—could be on an equal footing with Ottawa in the money market, he told the royal commission on banking and finance.

As it now works, Premier Roblin said, the central bank is acting for one government in a federal state of 11 governments. While it was empowered to act for the provinces, the bank never had been willing to do so.

"We do not argue here that the Bank of Canada's fiscal efforts necessarily have been wrong, inefficient or deliberately harmful to the provinces," the premier said.

"But it is a frequently accepted fact in financial circles that the Bank of Canada's interest have inevitably extended almost exclusively to the benefit of the government of Canada without any particular

Natural Gas Production Soars

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's natural gas production last year was 657,891,604,000 cubic feet, an increase of 25.8 per cent over 1960.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics also said that last year's production of crude petroleum rose by 15.3 per cent to a total of 220,861,241 barrels.

Twenty-five years ago today, geography and an act of Parliament put the Canadian people in the airline business. TCA was established on April 10, 1937, with $5 million of public funds, to meet the nation's urgent need for air transportation.

Have the people profited by owning an airline? Have Canada's air transport requirements been well provided for? What have 25 years of TCA operations meant to the Canadian taxpayer and the country as a whole?

These and other questions about your airline deserve answers in this Silver Anniversary year. This is the first in a series of messages presenting facts on which answers may be based.

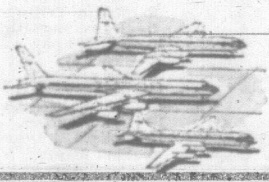

THE PEOPLE'S INVESTMENT. The Canadian people have invested in TCA in two ways.

The government has loaned the company (through Canadian National Railways) $228 million at current rates of interest. $36 million has been returned to the public purse in interest on these loans.

The government has also paid about $25 million for setting up the company and for losses sustained in 10 of the 25 years since 1937. (In the other 15 years, TCA made profits.)

Thus, it might be said that the people have a total investment of $253 million in the airline.

WHAT THIS REPRESENTS. As a result of its investment, the Canadian public owns TCA plant and equipment costing $316 million. This is made up of one of the finest aircraft fleets in service anywhere (11 DC-8's, 20 Vanguards, 49 Viscounts), six maintenance bases, and a vast array of ground facilities, equipment and spares.

April 10, 1962

TAKE-OFF on a second quarter-century of service

It also owns an asset beyond price in the experience and know-how—accumulated over 25 years—of 11,500 highly skilled employees.

This combination of material and human assets adds up to one of the largest, most modern and most respected air transport systems in the world.

But its over-all value to Canada does not stop there.

HELPING CANADA'S ECONOMY. In 1961, TCA paid out over $64½ million in wages to employees in Canada (94% of its total payroll). It paid Canadian suppliers some $54½ million for goods and services required to operate the airline.

A stable employer and a good customer, TCA helps support hundreds of industries and businesses in scores of communities from B.C. to Newfoundland.

TCA PAYS ITS WAY. As a publicly-owned company, TCA is dedicated to providing Canadians with the best possible air transportation at the lowest feasible cost. But TCA must—and does—pay its way like any other corporation.

It is subject to federal and provincial corporation taxes, and pays millions of dollars each year in other charges levied by government agencies; airport landing fees, building rentals, and air route fees, for example. In 1961 alone, this figure was $4.8 million.

It is a matter of pride that TCA's record of financial contribution and increasing value to Canadians has been achieved under normal conditions of business operation.

How TCA has measured up to the other responsibilities laid upon it by the people of Canada in 1937 will be explored later in this series.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Off the tee and down the fairway, nobody has enjoyed, as much success attacking a golf ball as has Ron MacLeod in the past few months. His drives are near perfect, and long.

I like Art Donaldson's comment about MacLeod's iron game: "That MacLeod just about takes the flag out of the hole with his irons."

If anybody's looking for the secret, get it from Ron himself: "The grip."

MacLeod, who continues to gain favor as the man to beat in this year's Times Vancouver Island Open championships, happened to mention the other day that he puts a lot of faith in the way a golfer grips his weapons.

"The perfect grip. If a golfer can find it, he's got it made."

The Jasper Park Lodge pro figures "the swing basically is always the same," and he has other "valid reasons for placing so much emphasis on the grip."

So let's talk about MacLeod's grip. "If I've tried one, I've tried 10 different grips in the past 15 years."

"Know something? I'm right back to the standard grip the one I started with."

Those who watched MacLeod as he tried to knock the flags down at Colwood last Sunday will have to agree that the blond better has apparently mastered the grip.

SHORT CHIPS: My nomination for the most gracious loser is George Bigelow. After losing to Cowiehan's Gord Whan, the doctor came away and offered such remarks as "We had a good match" and "Gord's a fine guy to play golf with."

Although Dr. Bigelow's game hasn't been the same since he injured his left wrist last autumn, he refuses to alibi. "I haven't been playing well enough to win this one," is his best.

Stan Leonard's new series made its debut Saturday and it was ironic that CBC-TV chose that weekend for the unveiling of the final rounds of the Masters.

The 13-week TV series promises to be quite interesting and that may be due, in part, to a new, super-slow-motion technique developed.

Maurice Raels drained Uplands' hole-in-one fund at the weekend when he scored an ace on the 180-yard 11th.

He was playing with Ray Rose, Bud Brunell and Bud Bell. Gorge Vale's annual Good Friday four-ball tournament for women, open to all Island golfers, is scheduled for April 20.

BIG GAME FRIDAY

School Rugby Final Scheduled at Night

Four straight championships... 16 out of the last 20. That is the record Oak Bay High School takes into the city-high school English Rugby final at Royal Athletic Park Friday at 7:30.

Victoria High is the opposition. But the Totems' chances of winning the Harold Russell Trophy aren't too bright. They failed to fracture OB's winning monopoly in two meetings this year, losing 10-5 and 6-5.

That last score indicates that anything can happen in a sudden-death playoff. Should OB blow cold and VH turn hot, the Russell trophy could find a new home.

Something new has been added to the 1962 final—lights. Previously the finalists settled matters in a two-of-three afternoon series.

Anxious to create more interest in rugby, prep officials decided to play this one under the arcs. A similar experiment with the city-high school soccer final proved successful.

Smokies Just Breeze Past Quakers, 6-0

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Defence-man Harry Smith, a standout in this year's world hockey championships, Monday night scored twice to lead Trail Smoke Eaters to a 6-0 western Allan Cup playoff victory over Saskatoon Quakers.

Smith, who left the former world champion Smoke Eaters to join Galt Terriers for the Colorado Springs, Colo., world tournament, opened the Trail scoring in the first frame and added his second counter later in the period.

The win gives Smokies a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven affair. The next game will be played Wednesday night, also in Trail.

Trail led 4-0 at the end of the first period, 6-0, at the end of two.

Pinoke McIntyre, Dave Russell, captain Cal Hockley and Addy Tambellini rounded out the Smokies' scoring.

QUALIFIED SAFELY

Defending champion Mrs. G. H. Lovitt (right) allowed out-of-towners to claim medal honors, but Victoria golfer qualified easily for championship match play in Empress Ladies' tournament. Mrs. S. Leahigh, left, a tournament "regular," gave and received congratulations following qualifying round at Uplands Monday. Mrs. Leahigh also made championship flight.

Calgarian Wins Women's Medal

Victoria supplies the defending champion but it's Calgary's turn to produce the medallist for the 32nd annual Empress Ladies' golf tournament.

The defending champion, Mrs. G. H. Lovitt qualified for championship play but top qualifying honors went to Miss M. Dodds of Calgary. The Alberta topped Monday's qualifying field at Uplands, 51-54-105-27-78, to edge another Victoria golfer for the medal.

Runner-up was Mrs. C. F. Ricketts of Gorge Vale, 47-50-97-18-79. Two other Calgarians—Mrs. R. C. Schrader, 51-57-108-28-80, and Miss Joan Loxam, 54-52-196-26-80—tied for third.

Portland golfers finished one-two in the hunt for low gross honors. Mrs. J. Flynn, 50-44-94, edged Mrs. G. E. Bronaugh, 50-45-95, by one stroke. Third low gross was added to the 1962 final—lights. Previously the finalists settled matters in a two-of-three afternoon series.

O'CONNOR MEDALLIST

Last One Off Finishes First

Last off the tee but "first" home.

That was John O'Connor's fortune in claiming medal honors in the qualifying round of the Empress golf tournament.

The 24-handicapper from Calgary's Golf and Country Club was in the last foursome to tee off on a blustery day that marked the start of the 32nd annual vacationers' tournament.

His score—91-24-67—was the last one to be entered on the scoreboard but it was the one that stamped O'Connor "first" in the field of 123.

DAVIS TOPS GROSS

It was a good day all-around for Calgarians. J. M. Robertson, an O'Connor clubmate, was runnerup in the net chase while Art Davis, a tourney regular with a five handicap, won low gross honors with a six-over-par 75.

Net scores of 76 or better were required to make the championship.

Deferred Repayment for Parents

Here is the third of 12 articles from the book, "A Brighter Later Life," by Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs and social problems.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

Many young and middle-aged people look with trepidation toward the day when their parents may turn to them in some form of dependency. But the parents themselves view the matter with greater trepidation still. The fear of becoming dependent upon their children hangs over so many of them like a threatening pall.

Whitman

In past generations, men and women put money aside for their old age and conserved their assets because they didn't want to "end up in the poorhouse." The "poorhouse" has sunk into the limbo of history (praise God), but in its place the aging couple today have a fear which to some may be equally gripping: they don't want to end up being a burden to their children.

Why this feeling about children? You hear it expressed on every hand—"I'd rather go on relief than take help from my children."

Perhaps the fierce demand for independence from children is an anachronism. It may have fit into past patterns of family living; it doesn't fit today.

Note the contrast between the old family pattern and the new:

A generation or two ago, children pitched in and helped in the family's economic struggle almost as soon as they were upon their feet. Small children worked on the farms, young boys went off and got jobs at 14 or 15. Girls from the time they were 8 or 9 performed the family's domestic labor—cooking, clothes-washing, floor-scrubbing, house-cleaning.

Today the boy of 14 is not

Robinson Set To Negotiate Name Switch

Oak Bay council Monday appointed Coun. Fred Robinson to meet city council delegates on a possible name switch for two roads running through both municipalities.

Involved are Pandora Oak Bay Avenue and Fort-Cadboro Bay Road.

Oak Bay council last month said it wants the two thoroughfares renamed throughout their lengths as Oak Bay Avenue and Fort Street, respectively.

The proposal was referred to intermunicipal committee which turned it back to the municipalities for consideration on an individual basis.

Victoria and Saanich delegates to intermunicipal committee were non-committal at the time.

expected (or even permitted by law) to go out to work, and the girl contributes precious little of domestic labor aside from occasionally snapping the electric dishwasher on and off.

Instead, these youngsters are kept in school, and they remain virtually totally dependent upon their parents until most of them have at least graduated from high school and sometimes until they complete college at 22. Often the parents are called upon even to provide financial support for the would-be doctor or engineer who must be educated until he is in his middle or late twenties.

Thus the contribution of parents these days is much greater. Haven't they a perfect right, then, to receive the return contribution from their children later in their own lives—a deferred repayment as it were?

Money in Bank

Shouldn't the increased contribution they have made to their children in their younger days in the form of a much prolonged period of rearing and education be as good a security, now that they are old, as money in the bank?

Many of today's elders might have considerable money in the bank were it not that they lovingly and selflessly put that money to work rearing and educating their children!

Life changes a great deal from generation to generation. Certainly it has changed many times and in many ways since Biblical days. But has there been any juncture in human history when the Biblical injunction, "Honor thy father and thy mother," has not been valid? If it was valid in the foothills of Sinai, and in the manors of the middle ages, and in the colonies of the New World—have we turned some abrupt corner in the affairs of God and man so that it is suddenly invalid today?

Much is said of loyalty these days. Isn't this, at the heart of it, a question of loyalty?

Public opinion has been called the strongest force on earth. We need to harness its great energy towards strengthening of the family bond.

We need to ask ourselves some searching questions: Why shouldn't aging parents, if they have done their job of raising their children and shouldered the burden of extended education, be able to accept warmly and graciously a helping hand from those for whom they have toiled? Does the loyalty of children end after they have received all their parents can give—or is it now their turn to pay back?

Should parents turn to strangers, to the waiting line and the identification card at some impersonal bureau, to reap the dividend for all the love and toil they have invested in their own flesh and blood?

The imperative task today is helping aged parents find their true place in the family: the status to which they are entitled. Status is important to all of us. We have to know who we are. In other cultures status was not a critical problem of the aged; they automatically graduated with the years to what sociologists call an "ascribed status." They were venerated simply because they had achieved old age.

We Need Modesty

In the cockiness of the modern era, with its youth worship and its tendency to write-off if not to derogate the wisdom of age and experience, old folks in the family can easily sink into the feeling that they have little status, of no status at all, or even the negative status of an unwanted burden.

We need today a recognition (perhaps one should say a re-recognition) of the precious qualities of age. We need modesty.

We younger people need to look honestly into the mirror and discern some of our own cockiness, our feeling that we "know it all," that we are so much smarter than our parents ever were, that we can teach us anything. The mirror, honestly viewed, would certainly reveal that we have grown too big for our britches.

And having taken the honest look, we might grow sufficiently in modesty and humility to pay some heed to the wisdom and judgment of those who have coped with life and learned from life much longer than we have.

By such an attitude alone we would return to our elders their rightful status.

We also would repay our rightful debt to them, for certainly we are nothing more than dead-beat debtors when we take, in our childhood and youth, all that our parents have to give, and return to them only a grudging tolerance when they themselves are old.

NEXT: Three generations under one roof.

Seamen Admit Entry Attempt

Richard Thompson and Thomas Osborne, both of HMCS Naden, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt police court Monday to a charge of attempted breaking and entering.

Police said they found the two on the roof of Island Weavers, 820 Esquimalt Road, on Friday night.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded them a week for probation report and sentence.

HEALTH INSTRUCTION IN SCHOOLS CONDEMNED

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian public schools are teaching health lessons which contain an "incredible number of factual errors, preposterous conclusions and ridiculous recommendations," a Canadian medical authority says.

Dr. G. J. Millar, professor of physiology and pharmacology at the University of Saskatchewan, made the charges in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association.

Textbooks, "full of pseudo-physiology," used by the teachers who are not trained to teach health or hygiene cause the development of a "state of ill-health consciousness" among pupils, he wrote.

That may even contribute to an aversion among students to enter medicine as a career, he added.

Dr. Millar called on the CMA to launch a study of health teaching in schools and an overhaul of textbooks.

Since about 1875, he charged, teaching of health and hygiene in Canadian schools has received no guidance or aid from the medical profession.

Dr. Millar said that of 50 text books he studied, only one should not be destroyed.

He said the text books are written by teachers, counsellors, physical educators, medical hygienists and superintendents and are the product of "people with no special knowledge of the subject."

FINE CHORAL WORK PRAISED

Slim, Three-Mark Spread In CBC Award Competition

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Five fine choirs topped off Festival Monday night. With one of the major awards at stake—the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation cash prize and half-hour concert—it was a close competition with only a three-mark spread between the five choirs.

Winner selected by adjudicator Sidney Bryans was St. Aidan's United Church Choir, conducted by Margery Vaughan.

Awarding of the prize, however, depends on the contest tonight between the Meistersingers and Arion Male Choir, one of which will have to better St. Aidan's 87 score if it is to carry off the CBC award. For the second time in one day, Mr. Bryans congratulated a whole class, and asked the audience in St. Andrew's auditorium for a special round of applause for the delightful choral work.

HIGH STANDARD
Of the choirs he commented that they had, without exception, revealed a very high standard. St. Peter's Anglican and St. Paul's Anglican Church choirs, Lake Cowichan Ladies' Choir and the Vera Barclay Singers were the competitors.

"I would like to think I could go to church every Sunday and listen to such splendid singing," Mr. Bryans remarked.

Earlier in the day he had said of an oratorio class for female voices in which there were 13 entrants: "Even in bigger cities one doesn't often come across such a fine class of oratorio singers."

Three finalists were chosen from this class and they will compete tonight for top place and a possible chance at the vocal championship trophy, the B.C. Electric Rose Bowl.

The three are lyric soprano Terry French, dramatic soprano Patricia Wicks and contralto Heather Tucker.

On the evening program Monday, Mrs. Wicks also took first place in the dramatic soprano class with 85 marks. Second place by one mark, went to Wendy Cox.

Some exceptional piano playing marked two performer category classes. In both—one for Bach and one for a Beethoven Sonata—the winner was Irene Lapin of Portland, Ore. Second in the Bach was Norman Abbott and in the sonata, Linda Morgan, also of Portland.

ALL RELATIVES
On tonight's program at St. Andrew's Hall, the Family Ensemble — any combination of instruments and/or voices, all performers to be relatives — opens the session.

Also, besides the male voice choir contest and women's oratorio finals, the male operatic solo class is scheduled and finals of the performers' piano concert group, preliminary of which was held this morning.

Piano classes continue Wednesday at Woodsworth Hall with young vocalists in the teens and sub-teens holding the stage at St. Andrew's.

'Personal Crusade For Peace'

SAN FRANCISCO—Eighty-five-year-old cellist Pablo Casals says he is embarking on a "personal crusade for peace" by conducting performances of his new oratorio in principal cities of the world, including Moscow.

Casals will conduct the work, 'El Pesebre (The Manger)', on April 19 and 20 in San Francisco. The oratorio, which has as its theme the birth of Christ, will receive its U.S. premiere on April 18 under the baton of Enrique Jorda, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony.

Casals said any money he makes from his appearances will go to a fund he is setting up "dedicated to the preservation of human dignity, love and fraternity."

The forthcoming performance will be the first public one that Casals has conducted in the U.S. since his retirement before the Second World War "as a protest against tyranny and injustice."

"I am a man first, an artist second," he said. "Asia man, my first obligation is toward the welfare of my fellow men. I will endeavor to meet that obligation through music, the means which God has given me, since it transcends language, politics and national boundaries."

DOG SAVES FIVE, DIES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Five persons were saved by a poodle in a fire at the Roosevelt Hotel in nearby Gallitzin Monday. The dog, a pet of the Charles Ragucci family, died in the fire. The dog roused Ragucci who got his wife, baby and two women guests out safely.

VIOLINIST WINS BIG AWARD

A music scholarship worth $3,000 from the University of Illinois has been granted to a former Victoria violinist John E. Sawyer. Mr. Sawyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sawyer, Richmond Road. A gifted performer, he played for two years as a student member of the violin section of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. Already a holder of a bachelor of arts degree from the University of British Columbia, this spring he and his wife will both be members of UBC's first class to graduate with the degree of bachelor of music. Mr. Sawyer plans to work toward his master's degree.

Wherever you stay....

...the Fair's only minutes away!

Like most metropolitan cities, Seattle has a number of attractive neighbor cities around its perimeter. Smaller, perhaps, but each with its own peculiar character and charm.

To the south, for instance, there's Tacoma. Or Everett to the north. Each a mere 30 miles away or little more than half an hour timewise. Then, too, there's Bremerton, famed navy-yard city, just a ferry-trip across Puget Sound. Imagine going to and from downtown Seattle by ferry!

These Seattle neighbors, with some splendid hotel and motel facilities of their own, are also included in our official housing plans for the Fair. Their housing facilities have been added to the multi-million room nights available in Seattle. No matter where you stay you'll be no more than minutes away from the Fair.

Housing for World's Fair time in Seattle has been organized and is being cleared by Expo-Lodging; a non-profit public service. This organization has assembled and is assigning facilities of all types, sizes and character in a conscientious attempt to meet every demand, satisfy every purse and preference. Facilities varying from suites in metropolitan hotels to a campsite in a State Park... from the hurry and bustle of downtown Seattle to the peace and quiet of surrounding areas. Quebec Finds Its Voice At CLC Meet

By AB KENT

VANCOUVER — One of the loudest voices heard at the first day of the Canadian Labor Congress biennial convention in Vancouver was that of Quebec — proud protector of individual rights.

Observers at the fourth constitutional convention at Exhibition Park Monday noted French-Canadians were taking advantage of new union freedom they had not enjoyed under the Duplessis administration.

They spoke out, and without contradiction or opposition from English-speaking elements in the huge gathering of organized labor's "parliament."

There was lively discussion on education and the role of bilingualism, about which the people of Quebec hold strong opinions.

LABOR COLLEGE

Education is one of the keynotes of the convention as laid out by president Claude Jodoin in his opening address, in which he spoke of the establishment in 1963 of a labor college at Montreal through co-operation of the Universities of Montreal and McGill.

But a matter concerning educational roles of the CLC itself was what drew fire from one Quebecois, representing the Montreal Labor Council, in speaking against a resolution introduced by another Montreal group, a local of the National Union of Public Service Employees.

The NUPSE local wanted the CLC's standing committee on education, which it said has limited efficiency through not being bilingual, to be replaced with a board of education comprised of separate French and English-speaking committees.

The objection was taken as a growing awareness of Quebec's desire to achieve—at least through an influential section of the trade union movement—a truer approach to a federated Canada.

"NEGATION OF GOAL"

The committee on education recommended non-concurrence of the resolution because it was of the opinion that "passage of this resolution would be a negation of the goal of a truly bicultural, bilingual country."

Spokesman for the Montreal Labor Council said the committee had done a very careful job of protecting the rights of all citizens in offering resolutions to the floor.

Another comment came after William Stewart, Vancouver representative of Shipyard General Workers' Union, suggested a vocational training program should be in the hands of the provinces for control, but the financing was something else.

Where should it come from? "The federal government should not be absolved from responsibility in this matter," he said.

The Montreal Labor Council delegate, speaking first in French, then English, said he could not agree with some of the earlier remarks. He concurred again with the education committee which recommended joint federal-provincial action in both technical training and an adequate system of aid to education at all levels, including free university education to all qualified students.

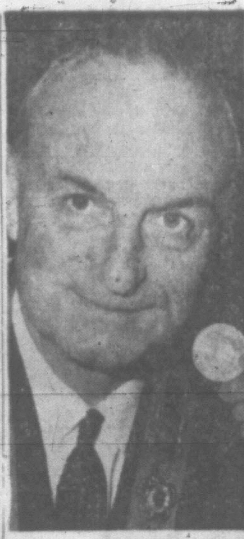

EASE BURDEN

This aid should be designed to ease the burden on municipalities and small taxpayers, the committee recommended.

Under the British North America Act, education is a sole responsibility of the provinces, which has been jealously guarded in Quebec.

"Because the Diefenbaker government has done some stupid things, does it mean we have to destroy democracy?" the Montrealer said. "Let's change the government, but let's not change democracy," he pleaded.

The educational program could not be improved at the expense of freedom, he declared.

MAYOR WILSON
... "truly a souvenir"

TELESCOPES ON DISPLAY

Members of Victoria Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, will display telescopes and other articles of interest at the annual activity night of the centre in Victoria College auditorium Wednesday at 8 p.m.

It will be the last meeting of the 1961-62 season.

Dr. Anne B. Underhill of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory staff, in charge of the program, said there will be a short quiz. It will be informal and purely an item of interest.

The meeting will be open to the public without charge.

First of Centennial Coins Given to Mayor by Kiwanis

First of 25,000 centennial coins going into circulation here was presented Monday to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The mayor issued a proclamation supporting the Kiwanis Club commemorative centennial coin project marking the city's 100th anniversary.

The dual purpose coins will be used for trading in numerous Victoria stores at a par value of $1 and also will serve as souvenirs.

"We have 25,000 coins that will be going out in the next day or so and we hope to increase that to 100,000," said Fred Usher, co-ordinator of the project.

SPECIAL SIGN

Stores displaying special sign will accept the coins for merchandise.

Coins will be redeemed at $1 each by the club at noon, Oct. 12.

But the club hopes that most people who use the coins will keep them as centennial souvenirs.

Plastic cases will be supplied for this purpose.

"These attractively designed coins are of historical interest in that they depict, on the face of the coin, the original Bastion erected under the command of Sir James Douglas, the mayor's proclamation read.

"The reverse side of the coin features in its design the dogwood, floral emblem of B.C.

"This centennial coin is truly a souvenir to be retained by everyone in B.C. and should prove of interest to our visiting tourists during this centennial year."

Mounted coins were presented to the mayor and Kiwanis Club president Cy Williams by Mr. Usher.

Big Welcome Planned for Belfast

Victoria centenary officials are planning a rip-roaring welcome for officers and men of the Royal Navy cruiser Belfast when the ship comes here for Victoria Day celebrations May 19 through 21.

The visit will be an adjunct to extensive plans by the Royal Canadian Navy to participate in the 100th birthday.

Each weekend throughout the summer, starting this Saturday and Sunday, "open house" will be held aboard a warship.

The destroyer-escort St. Laurent will be open Saturday and Sunday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at HMC Dockyard.

Fraser Next

HMCS Fraser, also a destroyer, will be on view the following weekend and April 28 and 29, the frigate Antigonish will take over.

Both ships will be in the Inner Harbor as will succeeding vessels, subject to operational requirements and docking facilities.

Belfast's visit will be the first by an RN ship since last August when the anti-submarine frigate HMS Londonderry berthed at Esquimalt for three days.

RN's Biggest

The 11,500-ton vessel is the RN's biggest cruiser and carries a peacetime complement of 847 officers and men.

"We are delighted they can visit us during our centennial year," said Mayor R. B. Wilson today. "We will be formulating plans for their reception and entertainment."

The "plans" are understood to be much the same as devised for the London-derry where hundreds of Victorians gave unstintingly of their time and effort to entertain the visiting sailors.

March in Parade

Principal theme will be "take a sailor home" but formal entertainment will also be arranged with the co-operation of hotels, restaurants and theatres.

It is expected that a contingent from the cruiser will participate in the traditional parade through Victoria.

Belfast will reach Esquimalt at 9 a.m. May 18 and leave the morning of May 22. She is commanded by Captain M. C. Gilles.

Broken Back

Completed one month before Great Britain declared war on Germany, she struck a mine a few months later and broke her back.

She was rebuilt and additional strengthening sections were added which show up as 2½-foot bulges on her sides.

Notification of her visit was received Monday by Mayor Wilson from United Kingdom High Commissioner, Viscount Amory.

The high commissioner, and his naval aide, Capt. St. J. Steiner, will be in Victoria at the time of the ship's visit.

KEEN COMMENT

Competition In Piano Stimulating

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Keen analytical commentary from distinguished British pianist Angus Morrison, plus infusion of top quality talent from the United States in several classes, is making piano competition in the Greater Victoria Music Festival more stimulating than it has been for several years.

But what is basically more important is that standards are being pushed up by both the entrants and the adjudicators. There is much to be learned from sitting in on these classes.

This morning, six pianists performed a 20-minute concert group each in a diploma standard session. Mr. Morrison found much to commend while making some perceptive criticisms in each case.

As finalists for tonight's program, he selected Portland's Irene Lapin and Linda Morgan and Victoria's Norman Abbott.

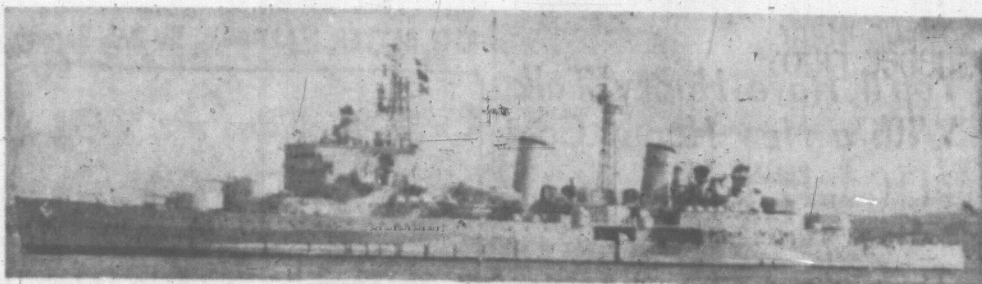

Union Official Stricken At Convention

Victor Midge, 48, of Victoria, international representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, attending the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Labor Congress in Vancouver suffered a heart attack this morning.

He is thought to have suffered the attack shortly before leaving for the convention floor at Exhibition Park.

His condition was described as "fairly good" by officials of the Vancouver General Hospital where he was taken.

This is his second heart attack.

$2,000 Stolen In Safecracking

Credit Union Loses In James Bay Haul

Second attempt in three months to raid the safe of West Coast Credit Union, 31 Erie, proved successful Monday night when thieves escaped with an amount probably in excess of $2,000.

The yeggs—police believe there were two of them—used an electrical cutting torch to burn their way into the 1,700-pound safe.

The first attempt to crack the safe on Jan. 20 failed when the heavy cabinet fell out of the rear of a van as the thieves made their getaway.

The theft was first noticed today when employees of the Harbor Machine Shop, 31 Erie, reported for work at 8 a.m. The credit union rents ground floor office space in the James Bay building.

WINDOW BROKEN

City detectives found entry to the credit union office had been gained by breaking a small hole in a window on the east side of the building and releasing a sash.

Once inside, the burglars forced a door leading into the Harbor Machine Shop and from there pulled in an acetylene welding outfit.

They found, however, that this machine would not burn the ¼-inch steel plate because it was not fitted with a cutting torch. They returned to the machine shop and took an automatic electric cutting torch to do the job.

MANGLED

With this, they proceeded to burn two holes in the safe door; one at the top measured 18 inches by six, and one below the dial and handle measured 20 inches by 10. After this they knocked off the dial and handle and used crow bars, cold chisels and a large hammer to break through the safe's fire wall, some six to eight inches thick.

They pried open a metal container inside the safe and stole the contents, $1,782 in cash.

A spokesman for West Coast Credit Union told The Times the total amount stolen was not immediately known but it was expected to be "considerably higher" than the amount missing from the cash box.

Some bonds were taken, he said.

"They did a pretty thorough job on the safe," he said.

Harry Fanthorpe, owner of the machine shop, said all was quiet when the last of his employees left the building at about 10:30 p.m. Monday.

The safe contained a similar

HEADS INTACT AS 'QUEENS' CITY-BOUND

Six Queens were set to leave by air tonight for Victoria from Schiphol Airport in the Netherlands—on economy class tickets.

The royal sextet are wax effigies of the wives of Britain's Henry VIII, who has already taken his place in the city's wax museum.

The wives, all in royal regalia and with their hands intact, are being flown out as real passengers, each with an economy class ticket costing about $365.

Each queen is worth about $1,120.

They arrived at the Schiphol airport today from London in a Bristol Britannia aircraft. In charge was 39-year-old Keith Gems, a creator of wax effigies.

'Sick Man' Freed In Bomb Hoax

A city man who succeeded in holding up two Trans-Canada Air Line flights from Patricia Bay Airport after starting a bomb hoax was handed a suspended sentence by Magistrate William Ostler.

"You are a sick man and you are desperately in need of help," the magistrate told Harold Thompson, 1214 Yates Street.

Thompson had admitted through his lawyer James Proudfoot that he suffered "an alcoholic problem."

NOT VICIOUS

"It was not a vicious crime," the magistrate said. "The most significant thing was that you left your correct name and telephone number when you told reservations clerk there was a bomb aboard a plane."

"In many ways you are a pathetic individual—imprisonment will do no good," he said.

Magistrate Ostler ordered Thompson to be placed on $500 bond to be of good behavior for a year.

Inquiry Ordered On Tipoffs In Grade 7 Exams

Education Minister Leslie Peterson has ordered an investigation into reports that Grade VII students are being tipped off on examination questions.

He said he asked departmental officials to check into the matter after receiving a letter from Professor F. K. Bowers of the University of B.C.

The professor said that the new Grade VII exams are being held on different dates in B.C. schools and students who take them first are relaying information to other pupils in other schools.

Prof. Bowers said the exams are identical and that his daughter estimated half the students in her class had "directly or indirectly, intentionally or unintentionally, some information about the papers still to be written."

BOARD TO CALL IN SPECIALIST

Full Survey Ordered On Library Services

By HUMPHREY DAVEY

A complete survey into the services of the Victoria Public Library has been authorized by the library board, librarian John Lort said today.

The decision is the result of complaints from PTA and citizen groups that the present book service in the Greater Victoria area is inadequate for children and adults.

PTA groups are requesting improvements to the bookmobile service.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt are pressing the library board to improve services to outlying areas.

Mr. Lort said Miss Rose Vainstein, faculty of the school of librarianship at the University of British Columbia, is expected to conduct the survey. She is a former public library specialist for the U.S. Office of Education.

Her appointment has yet to be confirmed by the board, scheduled to meet next Tuesday.

EARLY SUMMER

If her appointment is approved, Miss Vainstein will begin her survey early this summer. She will look into improving the bookmobile service and establishing branch libraries in the three municipalities. She may also study library finances.

Miss G. Ledingham, chairman of the leisure reading library program for the PTA council, said she was pleased with the board's decision to conduct the survey.

"It is about time this was done," she said. "Library services have not kept in line with our expanding population."

She disclosed the PTA council, backed by area PTA organizations, have petitioned the board to extend its bookmobile service from five to six days.

"We also requested the purchase of another bookmobile," she said.

Coun. Gregory Cook, Saanich council's representative on the board, said he prefers the establishment of a branch library.

He also said the entire library setup needs reviewing. "Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt pay a share towards the cost and maintenance of the library, but we have no vote on the board," he said.

He said the present library is overcrowded, and the children's library inadequate "but nothing is done to improve the situation."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The Central Plaza of Disneyland is festooned with flower baskets that are copies of those in Victoria, publicity bureau officials reported Monday.

Apparently the giant amusement park's planners saw Victoria's baskets and decided to use the idea to decorate one of their own avenues.

"C" Company of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will carry out a night training exercise at Heals Rifle Range from 6 to 11 p.m. Wednesday. Pyrotechnics will be used.

An application to rezone to residential an area for light industry in the vicinity of Regina Street, was rejected by Saanich council following a public hearing Monday. The application was submitted by residents of Cadillac. The property is part of Saanich industrial zone.

Francis Lacoste, retiring French ambassador to Canada, today paid courtesy calls at Government House, the Legislative Buildings and City Hall.

Mr. Lacoste, being transferred to Belgium, is on a farewell tour of Canada.

He called on Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes at 10, Premier W. A. C. Bennett at 10:40 and Mayor R. B. Wilson at 11:15 this morning.

This evening he was to be dinner guest at Government House.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson today welcomed news of a federal grant for B.C.'s physical fitness program.

The grant—reported to be $260,000—is part of a $2,500,000 offer to all the provinces announced in Ottawa Monday.

Mr. Peterson said the present B.C. physical fitness program consists of grant to local community recreation committees and parks boards as well as the general schools program.

Q. Could you please tell me who Lord Haw-Haw was and what criminal act he committed?

Prabhu Narayan Gour, one of India's leading librarians, will attend a B.C. Library Association conference in Victoria May 11 and 12.

Mr. Gour's Victoria visit will be the first stage of a year's study of Canada's libraries under the Colombo Plan Fellowship.

He will study facilities in B.C. until his departure on June 9 for other Canadian centres.

He is vice-president of the Council of the India Library Association, editor of the All-India Radio advisory council, and editor of the monthly Hindustan Review.

As highlight of the year's activities the Boys' Club is holding a series of displays open to the public from 7 to 9 p.m. every day this week at the clubhouse, 1240 Yates Street.

On Monday night a table tennis tournament was held, and tonight the club will give a gymnastic display. Concurrently with the display, there will be a sale of goods at the Crystal Garden.

The remainder of the program includes a checkers and chess tournament on Wednesday, a wrestling display on Thursday, and on Friday and Saturday a penny carnival and home bake sale put on by the ladies' auxiliary.

The fair marks the change in the club's activities to an outdoor program for the summer.

... HERE ... AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

My references to old Victoria taverns brings this poem from B. A. Howell, 2064 Marrion Street:

It's pretty grim around the place
From what it used to be;
There's changes now on every face
And that's including me.
I see the old-time snapshots
And gaze at old-time pals
And places where we strolled about
With pretty little gals.
The picnics at the shore,
The boating parties on the lake,
All gone forever more.

Mr. Howell recalls memories of the old Coach and Horses on Esquimalt Road; the Grotto on Trounce Alley, where "we relaxed after a hard day's work" and Alec Lipsky's Empire Saloon on Johnson, where Alec received his guests, "a grand guy and white clean through."

You'll Have Happy Talk With a New Happy Coat

By PENNY SAVER

Every woman likes to slip into something attractive and comfortable after a day's work, whether she is housewife or business woman.

If you're looking for something smart to lounge in, why not see these Japanese Happy Coats. (Wonder if they are named to bring happiness to the wearer.)

Made of rayon, these coats are hip-length with three-quarter length sleeves and a tie at the waist. Colors are red, navy or black and they have white Japanese symbols on them for contrast.

How much for these attractive tops? Only $3.50 each.

For the wee daughter who's looking forward to a new Easter outfit, you'll love the smart little Arnel outfits I've seen... and so will she.

Outfits feature skirts with pressed pleats, in solid color and smart waist coat tops that have attractive pattern in Arnel weave.

Tops are trimmed with solid color to match skirts and they button at the waist in double breasted fashion. Size 7 to 12 sell for $5.95 and colors are a choice of turquoise or pink.

Play clothes for little girls are a must, and I've seen some really cute slim jims and top sets. They're made with cotton knit material in beautiful spring colors. Slims are lined and have elastic insets at the back of the waist.

Pullover tops are in patterns to tone and blend with the slims. Sizes are from 2 to 6X and price is a mere $3.98 a set.

ONE SHOULDER LOW?

TAKE UP SEAM AT TOP

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

Your interesting column has been a great help to me. I am hoping you will answer my question. My one shoulder is lower than the other, which causes wrinkles to fall in the bodice on the low side. What is the correct way to fix this?

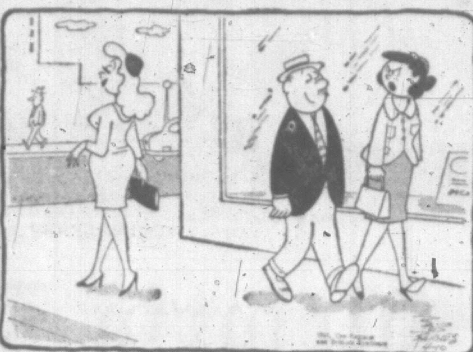

MRS. H.S.

Dear Mrs. H.S.:

Instead of relying on an extra shoulder pad, which was the way this situation was formerly corrected, take up the shoulder seam about 1/2 inch, tapering to nothing at the neck edge. Now when you can see the wrinkles disappear, you will know you have taken up the correct amount. Since you have made the armhole smaller, you will have to cut the lower edge of the armhole the same amount that you have taken out of the shoulder, tapering to nothing at the notch in front and back of the armhole.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Start Youngsters Early on Road to Exercise, Sports

I recently received the following letter from a reader:

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I share the sentiments of the reader you quoted not long ago, the one who wrote about the popularity of sports clothes and watching sports, but not taking an active part in them. The letter was amusingly written but certainly spoke the truth.

"As the mother of young children I am constantly in-cessed by the promotion of sedentary habits among young people, especially among the young girls. Many parents and most school authorities seem completely disinterested. The parents transport the children to school even when they live only a few blocks away.

"Many children are not encouraged to take advantage of the summer sports programs many communities offer, such as free tennis lessons, wonderful swimming programs and various other worthwhile activities."

I am printing this letter because I feel so strongly that exercise during childhood and youth builds stamina which will be badly needed to meet the stresses and responsibilities of more mature years.

If you would like to learn some folk dances, you will want my leaflet, "Put Your Little Foot."

If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 29 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

KID SISTER.

DEAR ABBY...

Too Old for Games!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My older sister, who is almost 18, and her boy friend, who is 18, rattle together in our living room sometimes. It embarrasses me. I wonder if you think it is all right. They have fun and he never really hurts her. I think they should not rattle like this. Am I being silly?

DEAR SISTER: No, you are being sensible. They are almost old enough for wedlock—time to quit the hammer lock.

DEAR ABBY: Charles and I have been married 11 years. His parents live in the same city and my husband is their only child. Don't get me wrong, Abby, they are nice people and we get along fine. But about three or four nights a week, and all day Sunday, they visit us. Charles goes out in the garage and works on his car or else he goes down in the basement to his workshop, and I am left to listen to them and talk to them. When I complain (in a nice way) Charles tells me that after a hard day's work he likes to "relax." I'd like to relax, too. But how?

TRAPPED AND BORED.

DEAR T AND B: Collar Charles when he is good and "relaxed" and tell him you are resigning as head of the entertainment committee. If he can't help you keep his parents' company, he should at least take turns. (PS: Don't you have a television set? It could solve your problems and EVERYBODY could relax.)

DEAR ABBY: I work where I can see the couples applying for marriage licences. Sometimes it makes me sad to see the youngsters who are marrying. The boy hangs back, shyly, and makes the girl do all the talking. They look so childish. I want to say, "Don't do it. Wait! You are only babies." Of course I don't dare. There are older couples in their middle twenties and early 30s. They know where they are going and what they are getting into. And when the older couples come in, we are delighted. They are so cute together, and we think, "Bravo for them. No more loneliness." COURTHOUSE EMPLOYEE.

Local Council of Women Hears Educational Conference Plans

Aim of the second Canadian Conference on Education in Montreal in March was to assure an exchange of ideas and information between the public and those responsible for the direction and encouragement of education at all levels. J. C. Lort, librarian at Victoria Public Library, told Local Council of Women Monday afternoon.

Conference was also planned to help create public understanding and support for the educational development which is essential to meet the needs of a growing nation.

Mr. Lort pointed out that "this conference did not intend or plan to reach any conclusions or pass any resolutions."

PLANNED IN 1958

Following the first conference in 1958 a group of education and laymen met to consider and decide on the topics for discussion at the recent conference. They were: Aims of education, professional status of teachers, development of student potential, new developments in society, financing education, continuing education, research in education, the citizen and education and education and employment.

At the first conference in 1958, Dr. A. W. Trueman tried to crystallize the general feeling of delegates by saying, "Nothing is wrong with Canadian education that a great deal more money will not put straight," quoted Mr. Lort.

Prof. N. V. Scarfe, dean of education at University of British Columbia altered this statement in a brief he had prepared, "Nothing is wrong with Canadian education that better quality teachers will not put straight."

Wilder Penfield, honorary chairman to the second Canadian conference, pointed up in his brief three of the emerging Canadian needs: The need of efficient teaching of second languages; a permanent Council or Canadian Education Forum; help from the Federal Government, given in a manner that will promote national achievement without infringement of the rights and responsibilities of the provinces.

Mr. Lort concluded his talk by pointing out the 13 recommendations that resulted from the four day conference one of which was that, "Canada requires a 'crash program' to develop a more competent work force with 'built-in mobility' to meet labor-market demand through certification on a basis acceptable throughout the country."

Miss Ethel Bruce, thanked the speaker. Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie presided.

Mrs. L. Johns, conservation convener, presented a brief on development of the Gorge.

A reception in the lower lounge and a buffet dinner in the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel on Monday evening, started the week's social program for the 32nd annual Empress Golf Tournament. Receiving the visiting golfers at the reception were Mr. Cyril Chapman, manager of the hotel, with the senior assistant manager, Mr. C. R. Bradford and Mrs. Bradford. Among those at the party were, from the left: Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Carnford of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bray and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Charlton of Banff, and Mrs. A. B. Barlow, Calgary.

Senate Reform Details

(Times Ottawa Bureau)
OTTAWA — A pension of $5,000 a year to senators who were members of the Senate on April 6 this year but who are retired at the age of 75 is provided for in a resolution of which Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave notice to the Commons Tuesday.

The resolution, which preceded the necessary amending legislation which presumably will be introduced later this week, fixes a lifetime "retirement annuity equivalent, to three-quarters of the amount per annum of the sessional allowance" a senator is receiving.

Senators receive a sessional allowance of $5,000 a year plus $2,000 for expenses.

First reading to the bill requiring senators to retire at the age of 75 was given in the House Monday. The Liberals joined with the Conservatives to vote in favor of first reading and indications are that the Liberals in the Commons will go along with the passage of the bill with a minimum of debate.

OPPOSITION

There will be some opposition registered by certain members of the Liberal majority in the Senate, but the measure is expected to pass the Senate with a minimum of debate. However, even with little debate there is doubt here that the bill will be passed through both Houses before dissolution, assuming that Prime Minister Diefenbaker is aiming for dissolution around April 18.

Under such circumstances the bill would die on the order paper. A new bill would have to be introduced in the new parliament following the general election.

This would mean that the present bill now before the House would give the prime minister a talking point in the coming summer general election. He could point to it as evidence of his intention to carry out senate reform. And should he be re-elected he would presumably submit a new bill to the new parliament.

Meantime with the bill fixing an age limit for senators, even though it is not passed, the political parties will be fighting for control of the Upper House as well as control of the Commons in this coming election. Such a retirement provision would force some 31 senators to retire if it became effective this summer with 26 of them Liberals.

The new legislation, if passed, will not come into force until the day fixed for the return of election writs. Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized that no appointment of successors to fill the senate vacancies would be made until after the general election.

The full senate has 102 members, with nearly three-quarters of them Liberal.

When the 75-year limit becomes law two B.C. senators would have to retire; Wallace de B. Farris of Vancouver, and J. Gray Turgeon of Caribou, Victoria's senator, Mrs. Nancy Hodges, would retire in 1963.

DOWN TO BRASS TACKS—Finance Minister Donald Fleming sits in his basement study informally clad as he puts finishing touches to the budget he is to present to the House of Commons this evening. (CP Photo.)

'WEE DONALD' JAUNTY, MUM

By JAMES NELSON
OTTAWA (CP)—In the House of Commons and out, political friends and foes alike have wondered aloud what once-dour Donald Fleming's new jaunty air means for the country in this election year.

Canada's minister of finance will tell them in the Commons tonight when he delivers his annual budget address, starting soon after 8 p.m.

Enigmatic as ever, he hasn't dropped the slightest hint as to contents of the budget which will chart the country's financial course over the fiscal year which began last April 1.

This is the sixth budget in five years for Wee Donald, as he is termed affectionately by his colleagues and in some what different tones by his opponents.

Mr. Fleming was first called Wee Donald by his family after his birth at Exeter, Ont., May 23, 1905.

Tribute to Ability

The nickname is often used in Ottawa, not only because of his short, stocky build, but out of respect for his boundless energy, for his ability and tenacity in Commons debate and for a mastery of his job that stirs a certain degree of awe in his cabinet colleagues.

Political circles tend to regard Donald Methuen Fleming's role as finance minister as somewhat less than enviable. He is the man in the cabinet who must say no to blandishments of colleagues wanting to spend more money.

And he is the one for whom the taxpayers reserve their darkest thoughts each income tax day.

Widely acknowledged as the hardest-working member of the Diefenbaker ministry, Mr. Fleming may also be one of its most widely-travelled members and its leading negotiator in ticklish situations.

He attends sessions of the World Bank, North Atlantic Council, and Commonwealth Economic Council, as well as U.S.-Canada trade and economic ministerial committee meetings.

Does Own Research

He customarily works an 80- to 90-hour week, spending his evenings alone in the study of his suburban Rockcliffe Park home pouring over finance reports and doing his own research on speeches.

When he did take a few days off last summer, he and his wife, Alice, drove to a friend's modest cottage on Lake Simcoe, 30 miles north of Toronto, and visited his childhood homes at Exeter and Galt.

One of his three children, Donald, works in Ottawa. David, who graduated from Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph two years ago, is working in Toronto. May, who graduated from University of Toronto a year ago has since married.

When the 56-year-old minister takes time out for exercise, it's tennis or swimming. He neither drinks nor smokes. He likes the theatre but rarely reads novels or watches television. He eats a hearty breakfast and lunches lightly on fruit, cheese and crackers, and milk.

Church Elder

Though his finance department duties require him to make his home here now, he is still an elder at Bloor Street United Church in Toronto, and attends Chalmers United here. He was president of the Upper Canada Bible Society for two years and president of the Businessmen's Noonday Bible Club in Toronto for 20 years.

He entered politics as a school trustee for north Toronto's Ward 9 at the age of 33 in 1938, and remained in municipal politics until he ran for Parliament and was elected in 1945 for Toronto's north-end Eglinton constituency.

He sought the Conservative party's national leadership twice, in contests with the present prime minister, and the two men remained friends.

TRACKING DOG EVIDENCE APPEAL

'Guinea Pig Experiment In Law' Draws Criticism

Five judges of the Appeal Court of British Columbia reserved judgment Monday on the issue of whether the evidence of a tracking dog should determine whether a man be sent to prison—or even to the gallows.

Their decision will have a far-reaching effect on Canadian law, since many police forces across the country are now equipped with tracking dogs who follow their victims by scent.

The objection to such evidence, hitherto, has been that a dog cannot be questioned on the scent he has followed.

UNRELIABLE

This was the objection raised by Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald in 1926. He ruled that the evidence of tracking dogs was not reliable.

"The admission of such evidence is at best akin to hearsay evidence," he wrote in his judgment on the case of Rex versus White.

In this case a new trial was ordered for an alleged murderer, because evidence of tracking dogs had helped to convict him.

In Appeal Court Monday, William R. McIntyre, representing the B.C. Attorney-General, asked the court to set aside the 1926 ruling against the admission of tracking dog evidence.

ACQUITTED

He referred specifically to the case of Reginald Dale Haas of Victoria, who was acquitted of breaking and entering by an Assize Court jury after Mr. Justice Thomas Brown ruled that the evidence of a police tracking dog was not admissible.

Mr. Justice Brown, counsel said, had based his decision on the 1926 decision in the case of Rex versus White.

"In view of changing circumstances, I suggest that ruling should be reconsidered," Mr. McIntyre argued.

He recalled that Haas was charged with breaking and entering a Sidney drug store and trying to burgle a safe.

"He was seen to pick up something in the nature of a hammer and to begin pounding on some unseen object."

Later, Mr. McIntyre said, a police tracking dog was taken to the drug store and allowed to sniff around the safe. He led police officers in a fairly direct route for about a mile, to the Bazan Bay Motel, where the accused was staying.

The dog took them along a beach where certain footprints could be seen. These footprints could have been made by the accused, but they were not positive.

"Had it been raining?" asked Mr. Justice H. I. Bird.

"Yes," answered Mr. McIntyre, "the sand was damp."

Counsel added that if the Appeal Court should decide to allow a new trial of Haas, by admitting the evidence of a tracking dog, the attorney-general's department would consider whether to call such a trial.

DAVEY SHOCKED

When he appeared before the Appeal Court on Jan. 31 last, Mr. McIntyre stated that, if the appeal judges directed a new trial, the attorney-general would take "no further proceedings" against the acquitted man.

"Your proposal shocks me," answered Mr. Justice Davey. The attorney-general is asking for a jury's verdict of acquittal to be set aside and a new trial ordered. Then, in the same breath, he says he will not proceed with a new trial.

"This means that the acquitted man would have no opportunity of defending himself against fresh accusations

...he would be made a guinea pig for an experiment in law and the charge would be left hanging over his head for life."

Do Parakeets Develop Gout?

Yes. It develops from an accumulation of waste uric acid or other organic salts in the bird's tissue. Gouty birds produce the usual symptom of swollen feet. The cure is difficult.

Clinic: Q. Our dog recently had puppies and she's very protective of all but a perfectly adorable one which she ignores completely. It seems to us that she has taken an instant dislike to this puppy. She won't let it near her. What should we do? —Mrs. A.A.V., Salt Lake City.

A. Chances are this particular puppy has some defect or deformity. For reasons we don't quite understand, mother dogs seem to sense imperfections in their offsprings and are repelled by them. You should remove the puppy from the mother's reach, keep her warm, and consult your veterinarian for a diet.

Clinic: Q. I have a six-month-old Weimaraner which I bought recently from a kennel. I have just noticed that he seems to hop like a rabbit when he runs. Can you tell me if something is wrong, or is this some normal condition which he'll outgrow? —M.S.S., Pittsburgh.

A. The symptoms you describe add up to Syringomyelia, a defect which is common in this breed of dog. There is no known treatment or cure, but fortunately there is no pain and your dog's condition in all likelihood will remain about the same as it now is. Afflicted dogs generally adjust very well to their handicap and learn to live with it.

Clinic: Q. Our cat Matilda seems to be gaining weight these days, but she doesn't seem to be eating any more than usual. Does this indicate some internal disorder? —L.P.O., Cape May, N.J.

A. It indicates more likely that Matilda, like so many of us, likes her food too much. However little she seems to be eating, her silhouette clearly shows that she's eating too much. Very likely, too, she's getting too little exercise. Cut down on Matilda's food and see if her figure doesn't improve.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ingrid Dyck, age 11, of Vancouver, B.C., for her question:

What Makes the Patterns in Wood?
The patterns in the board of wood can lead your eyes on a journey into wonderland. The light and dark streaks may remind you of busy highways roaming like ribbons across the land. The design may flow in graceful loops which resemble the waves of a gentle tide creeping up on a sandy beach. The pattern may swoop in feathery whorls around a dark centre like the eye of a bird. The wood of each tree presents us with its own beautiful pattern.
The pattern on a board of wood is drawn with light and darker lines running roughly up and down. We call these lines the grain of the wood, and an expert woodworker can tell the name of a tree from the grain. In a board of oak, the grain is fine, with the thin pathways close together. In certain pine woods, the coarse grain loops around hard little knots.
If a slab of wood is cut from straight across the trunk, we see these grain lines as round tree rings, one inside another. Each ring of light and dark wood is the layers of cells made during the changing seasons of a year. The new cells are added just under the bark of the tree.
In spring and summer when food is plentiful, the woody cell boxes are made larger. In the fall, as the tree begins to close down its workshop for the winter, the cells are made smaller and usually darker because more cement is added to their woody walls. These tree rings are added around trunk and branches like round cylinders from the bottom of the tree to the top.

Slice of Rings Round Trunk

A board of wood is cut from up and down the tree and the grain we see is an up-and-down slice of the rings which run around the tree trunk. The oak is a fast grower, adding a wide band of cells every summer— which is why its grain is coarse. The walnut grows slower, adding fine grain to its wood. The pine tree drops its baby branches, sealing the wounds with hard cement. It adds new rings around these scars and when we slice the wood we see them as hard knots.
The tree rings are not perfect circles and where the branches join the trunk they curve around in various de-

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK—I wondered what all the other beautiful girls think of Elizabeth Taylor, so I asked Joan Collins, who also once made a film with Richard Burton.

"Sorry—but I never give an opinion of another woman," Joan said, a very sneaky answer when you think of it.

"There are only," Joan added, "eight children involved in this"—which wasn't so sneaky. Joan was sitting in a Broadway theatre the other night when Eddie Fisher suddenly said hello. Many photos were taken. Not wishing to embarrass Eddie or herself, by getting into some pictures implying that the triangle had become a quadrangle, Joan rushed out before the curtain fell.

"I don't need that publicity," Joan told me later. "I'm kind of a square about marriage. I don't think it's like a seven-year studio contract."

BROKE RECORD

Joan said she did not fall in love with Burton when they made "Sea Wife" back in '37, and that "Rich," as he's usually called, told her, "You mean you're going to break my record?"

Not that she doesn't like boys. Heavens! At a Hollywood party, I once saw her in a rage at an escort who was flirting.

"Other girls had better keep their hands off a man I'm with!" Joan warns. "That's definitely poaching. And if the guy I'm with wants to do it—I lose the guy!" Since she's as beautiful as Liz, she doesn't have that trouble much. Her new guy is Anthony Newley, British actor-writer-director-producer and star of the London hit, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Phil Harris told Toots Shor to send congratulations to Bing Crosby at his new digs in Mexico—the Crosbys are already expecting again. Pretty perky Peggy King becomes a mother any day. (She's now on the Richard Hayes CBS radio show and wife of a tuxedo king.)

MM is embarrassed about a sneaky photograph taken in Mexico.

One of the "unidentified" people travelling around Rome with Richard Burton is probably Mike Nichols (of Mike and Elaine), who's visiting the actor. Glenn Ford invited Princess Grace to use his new Calif. home while she's movie-making there. The State Department asked Kim Novak—here for the "Boys Night Out" preview—not to gab too much about her Moscow visit.

Louis Armstrong, off on a European tour, will perform for the kings of Sweden and Norway.

A Brooklyn movie theatre advertises: "Richard Burton—Eddie Fisher's Rival—in 'Look Back in Anger"... Marlene Dietrich's discoverer, Josef von Sternberg, is titling his autobiography "A Guide to a Labyrinth"... Comedy actor Tom Poston flies to Europe May 10 to make a movie with Peter Sellers... Tony Curtis, who'll portray "Playboy" boss Hugh Hefner in his film bio, invested a chunk in the Playboy clubs. (And now he can help pick the club's pretty Bunnies)... A new L.I. bowling alley is called the Marco Bowl.

EARL'S PEARLS: At today's prices, people don't take vacations. Vacations take people.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Today's sad case, reports Hugh Allen, is the waiter who makes out his income tax—and from force of habit, over-adds the figures.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Twin Radar Planned For Ferries

B.C. ferries on the former Black Ball route will soon carry two sets of radar equipment after last week's grounding of the Chinook.

Assistant ferry manager Ron Worley said Monday tenders have been called for radar sets for the Chinook and Kahloke.

He said they were called before the Chinook ran on the rocks near Nanaimo Thursday.

The ferries had been using radar equipment rented by Black Ball.

Mr. Worley said the other B.C. ferries, Sidney, Tsawwassen, Victoria and Vancouver carry two sets of equipment. Chinook and Kahloke will, too. Reason they were not equipped sooner was that the contract for the sets rented by Black Ball had not run out.

Canadian author Raymond M. Patterson and Mrs. Mari-gold Patterson, formerly of 10814 Cox, Shoal Bay, Sidney, today launched an appeal against a Supreme Court order to pay $2,900 in real estate commission on the sale of their property.

Mr. Patterson, whose latest book, "The Buffalo Head," was published last year, is now living in Switzerland.

Victoria lawyer Louis Lindholm represented Mr. and Mrs. Patterson in the second case to be heard in the new appeal court quarters at Victoria courthouse since it was opened Monday morning.

He appealed against the judgment of Mr. Justice J. O. Sullivan in B.C. Supreme Court last November. Mr. Justice Sullivan ruled that V. and S. Realty, 556 Johnson, should recover $2,900 commission on the sale of the Pattersons' property at Shoal Bay to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ross for $38,000.

In his judgement, Mr. Justice Sullivan said it was "patent" that there was a scheme between the purchaser and the vendor to "avoid the payment of commission."

Mr. Lindholm asked that the judgment against Mr. and Mrs. Patterson be set aside. He argued that it was "contrary to the evidence" and "against the weight of evidence."

Victoria lawyer Robert A. Price appeared for the V. and S. Realty Ltd.

Man Falls To Death From Span

NEW WESTMINSTER — A Vancouver father of three fell screaming to his death Monday before the eyes of fellow workers on the Port Mann Bridge.

George Kelly, 24, a Dominion Bridge structural ironworker, was working on the deck at the end of the bridge when he apparently lost his footing and plummeted 100 feet.

His body bounced off a concrete pier and working barge before slipping into the Fraser River.

Boys Burn Child

VANCOUVER — Police are looking for two boys, aged 12 and 16, who they said, tried to turn eight-year-old Brian Prentice into a human torch. The boy had an eight-inch hole burned in his jeans by the older boys, who stuffed burning matches and pieces of wood into his trouser pockets, police said.

Widow Seeks Seat

REVELSTOCK — Mrs. Margaret Hobbs, widow of late Revelstoke MLA George Hobbs, said Monday she plans to seek his legislative seat.

She said she will stand for NDP-CCF nomination when a constituency nomination convention is called. She would like, she said, to take up her late husband's campaign opposing the High Arrow hydro development on the Columbia River which Mr. Hobbs believed would cause serious flooding and economic loss in his riding.

Arvid Lundell, mayor of Revelstoke and Seated MLA before Mr. Hobbs won the seat, also said he is interested in running.

Whalers to Sail

VANCOUVER — The new Pacific coast whaling fleet, goes to sea Wednesday. Five flag-bedecked whalers will sail for the whaling grounds in the Queen Charlotte area in a new co-operative Canadian-Japanese venture designed to obtain whale meat for human consumption in the Orient. A sixth vessel towing a barge loaded with supplies is already en route north.

Good Halibut Catch

VANCOUVER — Reports reaching here from the 21 Canadian vessels in the Bering Sea halibut grounds indicate good fishing despite ice and fog.

The first Canadian vessel headed south with its catch, the Marnock with Tom Mitten in command, left Sand Point, Alaska, last week. The vessel reported a catch of 63,000 pounds.

Two other vessels are south-bound, the Chief Skagald with 117,000 pounds and the Silver Viking with 150,000 pounds.

For the first time in several seasons, United States boats outnumber the Canadians in the fishing grounds. Eleven of the 36 U.S. boats are also reported heading south.

Enforced Holiday

VANCOUVER — Mayor Tom Alsbury says the city may have to impose enforced holidays on its 1,000 employees to keep its budget under control. The mayor said Monday his idea is that perhaps employees could take an extra week or two off—without pay—possibly with their holidays.

Leboe Nominated

FORT ST. JOHN — Bert Leboe, former member of parliament for Cariboo riding, won the Social Credit nomination to contest the next federal election in this area. He defeated Walter Wilk, a retired jeweler from Dawson Creek, 135 to 91 at the nominating convention.

Bulk Gas Considered

VERNON — The Vernon Fruit Union is investigating the possibility of bulk sales of petroleum products to beat of gasoline in the interior. The board of directors of the fruit co-operative were instructed Saturday to investigate the possibility of going into the petroleum business and then report back to members.

President Vernon E. Ellison told the meeting it might be possible to save two or three cents a gallon on gas if it were purchased in bulk and resold by the organization.

Although surgery and radiation are still the only reliable methods of treating cancer, some 100,000 different chemical compounds have been tested for their possible therapeutic value, according to the Canadian Cancer Society. Further research in chemotherapy requires more money. Give to the Society's annual campaign to help find the solution for cancer.

U.K. Leads ECM Talks On Unity for Europe

LONDON (Reuters) — The foreign ministers of Britain and the six Common Market countries conferred today on a future European political union.

The ministers meeting at a session of the seven-nation Western European Union were believed to have discussed a compromise solution for European political union put forward by President de Gaulle of France.

De Gaulle, who wants a loose "Europe of the fatherlands" composed of sovereign states, is believed to have the support of West Germany and Italy for his plan.

Host at today's meeting was Foreign Secretary Home of Britain. But the main British speaker was Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath, chief negotiator for Britain's proposed entry into the Common Market.

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Adenauer told West Germany's parliament today that a solution to the problem of European political unity emerged during his meeting last week with Premier Fanfani of Italy.

Adenauer and Fanfani were reported to have accepted French President de Gaulle's plan for a loose confederation of sovereign states.

Adenauer, 86, said he hopes the six European Common Market countries will agree on a solution during the coming weeks so that their heads of government can take the first step toward a political union when they meet in Rome in June.

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan refused today to tell Labor MPs what date he has proposed for a Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting on Britain's European Common Market negotiations.

He told the House of Commons it would be discourteous to do this until he had had a reply from all the 12 prime ministers.

Commonwealth spokesman, said Macmillan was being "furtive" about the date.

Pearson Leads Budget Attack

By VICTOR MACKIE
(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Breaking precedent, Liberal Leader L. B. Pearson will take the floor the minute Finance Minister Donald Fleming concludes his budget presentation tonight and the Opposition leader will start discussing the government's financial statement.

50-Foot Drop To Freedom By Boy of 9

BERLIN (AP) — A nine-year-old East German boy jumped from the roof of a five-story building into a net in West Berlin today.

Witnesses said the youngster appeared on the roof of a house overlooking Bernauerstrasse, the French sector street that marks the border. The sidewalk is Western territory while the houses belong to the East.

A West Berlin fire rescue squad spread a net and the boy jumped into it, dropping more than 50 feet.

Because so many persons escaped from Bernauerstrasse houses, Communist authorities evacuated them and bricked up windows.

An East German policeman, escaped to the West during the night by running through a subway tunnel, West Berlin police reported. He was a member of the transport police, responsible for patrolling railroad installations.

Information Bureau West, the unofficial Western intelligence agency, reported that a leading East Berlin tennis player, Herbert Schmidt, had defected to the West while taking part in the United Arab Republic's tennis championships. IBW said that instead of returning home, he flew to Frankfurt.

Generally it is the Opposition's chief financial critic, William Bendickson, Kenora, Rainy River, who makes the leadoff speech for the Opposition after the budget. But the Liberals are concerned that tonight may be the last opportunity they will have to discuss the budget with dissolution believed imminent.

Mr. Pearson accordingly will go on with the criticism of the budget as soon as Mr. Fleming finishes.

Mr. Fleming will start his speech at 8 p.m. (5 p.m. PST) and will get to tax changes about 9 p.m. (6 p.m.).

The pre-election budget is expected to contain features that will appeal to the voters. There may be provision for an increase in family allowances and some slight reductions on the tax load. But with another deficit expected there is little room for the finance minister to make major tax concessions.

Recurrence Of Smallpox Scares U.K.

CARDIFF (AP) — Three women mental patients died of smallpox today bringing the death toll in the South Wales outbreak to five.

The Welsh board of health said there were seven other cases of smallpox, two in critical condition.

All the cases in the latest South Wales outbreak have been elderly women from the pital at Bridgend, near Cardiff.

The threat of a possible outbreak in the English midlands developed today when a Pakistani was admitted to a hospital there with suspected smallpox.

EXPECTS MORE DEATHS

The Welsh board of health said there was a particular risk of more deaths among the women because of their frail conditions—both mentally and generally—and their ages.

The last Welsh outbreak killed six persons. It followed an earlier score—extending from London through the midlands to the industrial north—in which seven died.

Soccer and rugby matches scheduled for this week in South Wales have been cancelled or switched to other grounds because of the new outbreak.

Still Have Time To Accept Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain gave Russia an apparently final warning today that unless there is agreement on an enforceable nuclear test ban the new U.S. test series scheduled to start late this month "will have to go forward."

In a joint statement released at the White House, the two governments called on the Soviets to reconsider their position on the inspection issue and to "accept the principle of international verification."

"If they will do this," the statement said, "there is still time to reach agreement."

The declaration added: "But if there is no change in the present Soviet position, the governments of United States and the United Kingdom must conclude that their efforts to obtain a workable treaty to ban nuclear tests are not now successful, and the test series scheduled for the latter part of this month will have to go forward."

HAVE NO ILLUSIONS

It was understood that the U.S. and British leaders were under no illusion that their words would cause the Kremlin to do an about-face in its stiff opposition to international controls, which the Western powers say are needed to make a test ban workable.

But they were known to feel that the western case for resuming tests should carry with it as much support as possible in world opinion.

The Western case sums up this way:

The Soviet Union broke an atomic test moratorium that had been in existence since 1958 with a series of more than 40 nuclear explosions last fall. Unless the Soviet Union agrees to a test ban with adequate safeguards against cheating, the West must resume its nuclear testing for its own security.

The Soviets have declared they will start still another series if the Americans go ahead with the proposed tests.

NOT PERSONAL APPROACH

President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan chose the joint statement technique in preference to forwarding another direct appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Some U.S. officials said the time is considered too late for the personal communication method.

The statement was not presented as a Kennedy-Macmillan declaration but as one from the two governments.

The 600-word statement reviewed the latest round of U.S.-British negotiations with Russia at Geneva on a treaty to ban the further testing of nuclear weapons.

It said that in the view of the Western powers a treaty without adequate verification to guarantee against cheating would be unworkable. Therefore, the statement argued, the whole issue turns on Russia's rejection of "the principle of objective international verification."

The declaration obviously was designed to place upon the Soviet Union the responsibility for the resumption of the nuclear arms development race.

Arms Treaty Progresses

GENEVA (Reuters) — The 17-nation disarmament conference agreed today on two-thirds of a draft preamble to a treaty on general and complete disarmament presented by the United States and Russia as co-chairmen, an authoritative source said.

But the source said the U.S. and Russia after working on the draft preamble for about a week, still were in complete disagreement on two points concerning the wording outlining international controls and the peace-keeping machinery needed in an unarmed world.

U.S. chief delegate Arthur Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin will have further talks on these points and report to the conference.

Mac Belittles Spy Fear By Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia's espionage argument in the East-West nuclear weapons test-ban deadlock seems "almost incomprehensible," Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons today.

"It seems impossible to believe in the sincerity of that argument, although I realize how sensitive the Soviet government is on that question," Macmillan said.

CANT TAKE RISK

Under questioning in the Commons by Opposition Labor MPs, the Conservative prime minister said he could not ask Kennedy to go on with a vague moratorium on nuclear tests and then find the West faced with a third series of Soviet tests.

"This would put us in a most dangerous position,"

PATIENTS CLEARED OUT AS MARGARET SPEAKS

LONDON (Reuters) — Two British newspapers say that a ward in a Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, hospital was cleared of patients so that Princess Margaret could make a speech in it when she visited to open a cancer treatment centre today.

The Daily Express and The Daily Mirror report that patients who were well enough were sent home and the admission of a number of new cases was delayed.

The Mirror quotes a hospital official as saying: "The alternative was to hire a hall half a mile away."

The Daily Express says that although Princess Margaret had asked for a "plain, simple meal," at the hospital, the menu included asparagus, steak cooked in wine, and strawberries flown from California.

'OPERATION FREEDOM'

Big C of C Group Rejects Project

TORONTO (CP) — "Operation Freedom," an anti-Communist propaganda campaign instituted by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, today was repudiated by the chamber's largest single member.

'Birchism' Repudiated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Howard T. Mitchell, second-national vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, today took strong issue with Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin likening the chamber's "Operation Freedom" program to "John Birchism" in the United States.

Mr. Mitchell said in a statement: "Mr. Jodoin, or anyone else taking a few minutes to investigate, could satisfy himself that there is absolutely no parallel between the Canadian Chamber of Commerce program of economic education called Operation Freedom and so-called 'John Birchism' in the United States."

Mr. Mitchell was speaking on a speech by Mr. Jodoin to the CLC convention Monday in which the Labor leader charged the chamber was trying to import McCarthyism into Canada. He said the chamber's operation freedom program was aimed chiefly at attacking the so-called welfare state and likened it to the far-right John Birch movement in the U.S.

Union Battle At CLC Door

VANCOUVER (CP) — The outcast Mine-Mill Union today took its fight against the United Steelworkers of America to the doors of the Canadian Labor Congress convention here.

Three members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers handed out copies of the Mine-Mill Herald to delegates, calling for "all-in trade union unity."

The special issue of the union publication denounced top leaders of the 1,070,000-member CLC as "dictators" and charged them with backing the steelworkers union in "the dirty business of raiding" in Sudbury.

Big Welcome Planned for Belfast

Victoria centenary officials are planning a rip-roaring welcome for officers and men of the Royal Navy cruiser Belfast when the ship comes here for Victoria Day celebrations May 19 through 21.

The visit will be an adjunct to extensive plans by the Royal Canadian Navy to participate in the 100th birthday.

Each weekend throughout the summer, starting this Saturday and Sunday, "open house" will be held aboard a warship.

The destroyer-escort St. Laurent will be open Saturday and Sunday from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. at HMC Dockyard.

Fraser Next

HMCS Fraser, also a destroyer, will be on view the following weekend and April 28 and 29, the frigate Antigonish will take over.

Both ships will be in the Inner Harbor as well as succeeding vessels, subject to operational requirements and docking facilities.

Belfast's visit will be the first by an RN ship since last August when the anti-submarine frigate HMS Londonderry berthed at Esquimalt for three days.

RN's Biggest

The 11,500-ton vessel is the RN's biggest cruiser and carries a peacetime complement of 847 officers and men.

"We are delighted they can visit us during our centennial year," said Mayor R. B. Wilson today. "We will be formulating plans for their reception and entertainment."

The "plans" are understood to be much the same as devised for the London-derry where hundreds of Victorians gave unstintingly of their time and effort to entertain the visiting sailors.

March in Parade

Principal theme will be "take a sailor home" but formal entertainment will also be arranged with the co-operation of hotels, restaurants and theatres.

It is expected that a contingent from the cruiser will participate in the traditional parade through Victoria.

Belfast will reach Esquimalt at 9 a.m. May 18 and leave the morning of May 22. She is commanded by Captain M. C. Giles.

Broken Back

Completed one month before Great Britain declared war on Germany, she struck a mine a few months later and broke her back.

She was rebuilt and additional strengthening sections were added which show up as 2½-foot bulges on her sides.

Notification of her visit was received Monday by Mayor Wilson from United Kingdom High Commissioner, Viscount Amory.

The high commissioner, and his naval aide, Capt. St. J. Steiner, will be in Victoria at the time of the ship's visit.

KEEN COMMENT

Competition In Piano Stimulating

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Keen analytical commentary from distinguished British pianist Angus Morrison, plus infusion of top quality talent from the United States in several classes, is making piano competition in the Greater Victoria Music Festival more stimulating than it has been for several years.

But what is basically more important is that standards are being pushed up by both the entrants and the adjudicators. There is much to be learned from sitting in on these classes.

This morning, six pianists performed a 20-minute concert group each in a diploma standard session. Mr. Morrison found much to commend while making some perceptive criticisms in each case.

As finalists for tonight's program, he selected Portland's Irene Lapin and Linda Morgan and Victoria's Norman Abbott.

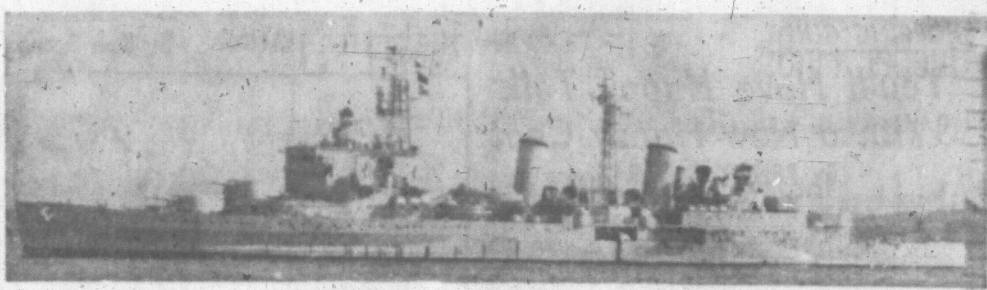

Union Official Stricken At Convention

Victor Midgley, 48, of Victoria, international representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, attending the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Labor Congress in Vancouver suffered a heart attack this morning.

He is thought to have suffered the attack shortly before leaving for the convention floor at Exhibition Park.

His condition was described as "fairly good" by officials of the Vancouver General Hospital where he was taken.

This is his second heart attack.

$2,000 Stolen In Safecracking

Credit Union Loses In James Bay Haul

Second attempt in three months to raid the safe of West Coast Credit Union, 31 Erie, proved successful Monday night when thieves escaped with an amount probably in excess of $2,000.

The yeggs—police believe there were two of them—used an electrical cutting torch to burn their way into the 1,700-pound safe.

The first attempt to crack the safe on Jan. 20 failed when the heavy cabinet fell out of the rear of a van as the thieves made their getaway.

The theft was first noticed today when employees of the Harbor Machine Shop, 31 Erie, reported for work at 8 a.m. The credit union rents ground floor office space in the James Bay building.

WINDOW BROKEN

City detectives found entry to the credit union office had been gained by breaking a small hole in a window on the east side of the building and releasing a hasp.

Once inside, the burglars forced a door leading into the Harbor Machine Shop and from there pulled in an acetylene welding outfit.

They found, however, that this machine would not burn the ½-inch steel plate because it was not fitted with a cutting torch. They returned to the machine shop and took an automatic electric cutting torch to do the job.

MANGLED

With this, they proceeded to burn two holes in the safe door; one at the top measured 18 inches by six, and one below the dial and handle measured 20 inches by 10. After this they knocked off the dial and handle and used crow bars, cold chisels and a large hammer to break through the safe's fire wall, some six to eight inches thick.

They pried open a metal container inside the safe and stole the contents, $1,782 in cash.

A spokesman for West Coast Credit Union told The Times the total amount stolen was not immediately known but it was expected to be "considerably higher" than the amount missing from the cash box.

Some bonds were taken, he said.

"They did a pretty thorough job on the safe," he said. Harry Fanthorpe, owner of the machine shop, said all was quiet when the last of his employees left the building at about 10.30 p.m. Monday.

The safe contained a similar

SEPT. 10 OUR DAY AT FAIR?

Sept. 10 may be chosen as Victoria Day at the Seattle world's fair, City Hall officials indicated today.

Century 21 originally scheduled May 21 for a combined Vancouver-Victoria Day at the fair but this would clash with the city's traditional Victoria Day weekend festivities.

Publicity bureau chief William Hawkins recently visited Seattle and suggested Sept. 10—start of the Sept. 10-16 Canada Week at the fair—would be a desirable alternative for Victoria Day.

"That certainly sounds like a good idea, if it doesn't clash with any of our centennial events," a City Hall official commented.

Christopher L. Gardner, Michael C. Gerry and Alexander M. Robinson were winners of a $2,400 studentship and will study at UBC.

Douglas Dolman and Gary E. Troughton also will use a $2,000 bursary in Vancouver.

The NRC this year awarded 722 scholarships worth a total $1,485,100.

BOARD TO CALL IN SPECIALIST

Full Survey Ordered On Library Services

By HUMPHREY DAVY

A complete survey into the services of the Victoria Public Library has been authorized by the library board, librarian John Lort said today.

The decision is the result of complaints from PTA and citizen groups that the present book service in the Greater

Victoria area is inadequate for children and adults.

PTA groups are requesting improvements to the bookmobile service.

Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt are pressing the library board to improve services to outlying areas.

Mr. Lort said Miss Rose

Vainstein, faculty of the school of librarianship at the University of British Columbia, is expected to conduct the survey. She is a former public library specialist for the U.S. Office of Education.

Her appointment has yet to be confirmed by the board, scheduled to meet next Tuesday.

EARLY SUMMER

If her appointment is approved, Miss Vainstein will begin her survey early this summer. She will look into improving the bookmobile service and establishing branch libraries in the three municipalities. She may also study library finances.

Miss G. Ledingham, chairman of the leisure reading library program for the PTA council, said she was pleased with the board's decision to conduct the survey.

"It is about time this was done," she said. "Library services have not kept in line with our expanding population."

She disclosed the PTA council, backed by area PTA organizations, have petitioned the board to extend its bookmobile service from five to six days.

"We also requested the purchase of another bookmobile," she said.

Coun. Gregory Cook, Saanich council's representative on the board, said he prefers the establishment of a branch library.

He also said the entire library setup needs reviewing. "Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt pay a share towards the cost and maintenance of the library, but we have no vote on the board," he said.

He said the present library is overcrowded, and the children's library inadequate "but nothing is done to improve the situation."

... HERE ... AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

My references to old Victoria taverns brings this poem from B. A. Howell, 2064 Marrion Street:

It's pretty grim around the place
From what it used to be;
There's changes now on every face
And that's including me.
I see the old-time snapshots
And gaze at old-time pals
And places where we strolled about
With pretty little gals.
The picnics at the shore,
The boating parties on the lake,
All gone forever more.

Mr. Howell recalls memories of the old Coach and Horses on Esquimalt Road; the Grotto on Trounce Alley, where "we relaxed after a hard day's work" . . . and Alec Lipky's Empire Saloon on Johnson, where Alec received his guests, "a saucy and white clean through."

Mrs. H. L. Taylor, returning to England after 12 years in Canada, was somewhat shocked when a bus conductor answered her inquiry in pidgin English.

"It seems as if London's whole transport system has been taken over by people from the tropics," she said.

Victoria College students may remember Prof. Burke Sheeran, an authority on Canadian history, who used to visit here from his home in Oakland, California.

He is now on the staff of the U.S. Consulate at Dacca, East Pakistan.

"The work is absorbing and challenging," he writes. "It is a virgin field for both public administration and my own specialty of management analysis."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The Central Plaza of Disneyland is festooned with flower baskets that are copies of those in Victoria, publicity bureau officials reported Monday.

Apparently the giant amusement park's planners saw Victoria's baskets and decided to use the idea to decorate one of their own avenues.

"C" Company of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will carry out a night training exercise at Heals Rifle Range from 6 to 11 p.m. Wednesday. Pyrotechnics will be used.

Q. Could you please tell me who Lord Haw Haw was and what criminal act he committed?

Q. I have long wondered what the sign "RX" means as it appears on prescriptions for drugs. I.H.

A. It means "Recipe" or "Take thou."

Two Missing as Cement Barge Sinks

SEATTLE (AP)—Two men were missing and believed drowned and one was rescued after a barge loaded with 1,000 tons of cement capsized without warning today in Seattle's Duwamish waterway.

Divers sought Jess George, 38, and Elmer R. (Pete) Weatherby, 45, who were seen briefly struggling in the water and then disappeared.

Meanwhile, as the $22,000 competition entered its second day, Jimmy Shields of Calgary nipped Aubrey Neff of Vancouver 8-7, Buzz McGibbey of Trail whipped Mel Hughes of New Westminster 15-5, and Frank Law of Vancouver defeated Fred Langan of Richmond, B.C., 10-6.

The drivers left Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., 38 strong early today and although the road to the Lakehead was reported "generally good," the rallyists were said to have run into a blizzard that hit Port Arthur Sunday, forcing eight out of the running.

Licking the wounds of a scalding by Chicago Black Hawks in this year's cup semifinals, Blake said "it's been my hardest year as a coach, my most disappointing year."

RUSSIANS WARNED ON U.S. A-TESTS

50-Foot Drop To Freedom By Boy of 9

BERLIN (AP)—A nine-year-old East German boy jumped from the roof of a five-storey building into a net in West Berlin today.

Witnesses said the youngster appeared on the roof of a house overlooking Bernauerstrasse, the French sector street that marks the border. The sidewalk is Western territory while the houses belong to the East.

A West Berlin fire rescue squad spread a net and the boy jumped into it, dropping more than 50 feet.

Because so many persons escaped from Bernauerstrasse houses, Communist authorities evacuated them and bricked up windows.

An East German policeman escaped to the West during the night by running through a subway tunnel, West Berlin police reported. He was a member of the transport police, responsible for patrolling railroad installations.

KEEP ROUTE SECRET

Two civilians also escaped to the West, but their method was kept secret.

Information Bureau West, the unofficial Western intelligence agency, reported that a leading East Berlin tennis player, Herbert Schmidt, had defected to the West while taking part in the United Arab Republic's tennis championships. IBW said that instead of returning home, he flew to Frankfurt.

IBW also reported the defection of Werner Hinderstein from the East German trade office in London, which promotes the annual Leipzig Trade Fair. The agency said he flew to Cologne to seek refuge in West Germany.

Recurrence Of Smallpox Scares U.K.

CARDIFF (AP)—Three women mental patients died of smallpox today bringing the death toll in the South Wales outbreak to five.

The Welsh board of health said there were seven other cases of smallpox, two in critical condition.

All the cases in the latest South Wales outbreak have been elderly women from the hospital at Bridgend, near Cardiff.

The threat of a possible outbreak in the English midlands developed today when a Pakistani was admitted to a hospital there with suspected smallpox.

EXPECTS MORE DEATHS

The Welsh board of health said there was a particular risk of more deaths among the women because of their frail conditions—both mentally and generally—and their ages.

The last Welsh outbreak killed six persons. It followed an earlier score—extending from London through the midlands to the industrial north—in which seven died.

Soccer and rugby matches scheduled for this week in South Wales have been cancelled or switched to other grounds because of the new outbreak.

'FUNNY MONEY' COMING

Special centennial $100 "bills" will be circulated soon with a big bonus for some lucky holders. Bearing Mayor R. B. Wilson's picture, they will sell for $1. Centennial officials plan to choose a "Centennial Citizen" every

U.K. Leads ECM Talks On Unity for Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—The foreign ministers of Britain and the six Common Market countries conferred today on a future European political union.

The ministers—meeting at a session of the seven-nation Western European Union—were believed to have discussed a compromise solution for European political union put forward by President de Gaulle of France.

De Gaulle, who wants a loose "Europe of the fatherlands" composed of sovereign states, is believed to have the support of West Germany and Italy for his plan.

Host at today's meeting was Foreign Secretary Home of Britain. But the main British speaker was Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath, chief negotiator for Britain's proposed entry into the Common Market.

BONN (Reuters)—Chancellor Adenauer told West Germany's parliament today that a solution to the problem of European political union emerged during his meeting last week with Premier Fanfani of Italy.

Adenauer and Fanfani were reported to have accepted French President de Gaulle's

Reconsider Stand on Ban, Soviet Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Britain gave Russia an apparently final warning today that unless there is agreement on an enforceable nuclear test ban the new U.S. test series scheduled to start late this month "will have to go forward."

In a joint statement released at the White House, the two governments called on the Soviets to reconsider their position on the inspection issue and to "accept the principle of international verification."

"If they will do this," the statement said, "there is still time to reach agreement."

HAVE NO ILLUSIONS

It was understood that the U.S. and British leaders were under no illusion that their words would cause the Kremlin to do an about-face in its stiff opposition to international controls, which the Western powers say are needed to make a test ban workable.

But they were known to feel that the Western case for resuming tests should carry with it as much support as possible in world opinion.

The Western case sums up this way:

The Soviet Union broke an atomic test moratorium that had been in existence since 1958 with a series of more than 40 nuclear explosions last fall. Unless the Soviets agree to a test ban with adequate safeguards against cheating, the West must resume its nuclear testing for its own security.

The Soviets have declared they will start still another series if the Americans go ahead with the proposed tests.

NOT PERSONAL APPROACH

President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan chose the joint statement technique in preference to forwarding another direct appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Some U.S. officials said the time is considered too late for the personal communication method.

The statement was not presented as a Kennedy-Macmillan declaration but as one from the two governments.

The 600-word statement reviewed the latest round of U.S.-British negotiations with Russia at Geneva on a treaty to ban the further testing of nuclear weapons.

It said that in the view of the Western powers a treaty without adequate verification to guarantee against cheating would be unworkable. Therefore, the statement argued, the whole issue turns on Russia's rejection of "the principle of objective international verification."

The declaration obviously was designed to place upon the Soviet Union the responsibility for the resumption of the nuclear arms development race.

Arms Treaty Progresses

GENEVA (Reuters)—The 17-nation disarmament conference agreed today on two-thirds of a draft preamble to a treaty on general and complete disarmament presented by the United States and Russia as co-chairmen, an authoritative source said.

But the source said the U.S. and Russia, after working on the draft preamble for about a week, still were in complete disagreement on two points concerning the wording outlining international controls and the peace-keeping machinery needed in an unarmed world.

U.S. chief delegate Arthur Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin will have further talks on these points and report to the conference.

Mac Belittles Spy Fear By Russia

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia's espionage argument in the East-West nuclear weapons talks was belittled today by Prime Minister Macmillan.

"It seems impossible to believe in the sincerity of that argument, although I realize how sensitive the Soviet government is on that question," Macmillan said.

CAN'T TAKE RISK
Under questioning in the Commons by Opposition Labor MP, the Conservative prime minister said he could not ask Kennedy to go on with a vague moratorium on nuclear tests and then find the West faced with a third series of Soviet tests.

"This would put us in a most dangerous position."

'Birchism' Parallel Repudiated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Howard T. Mitchell, second national vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, today took strong issue with Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin likening the chamber's "Operation Freedom" program to "John Birchism" in the United States.

Mr. Mitchell said in a statement: "Mr. Jodoin, or anyone else taking a few minutes to investigate, could satisfy himself that there is absolutely no parallel between the Canadian Chamber of Commerce program called Operation Freedom and so-called 'John Birchism' in the United States."

Mr. Mitchell was commenting on a speech by Mr. Jodoin to the CLC convention Monday in which the Labor leader charged the chamber was trying to import McCarthyism into Canada. He said the chamber's operation freedom program was aimed chiefly at attacking the so-called welfare state and likened it to the far-right John Birch movement in the U.S.

"Operation Freedom is an effort to show Canadians what supports personal liberty and what can reduce or destroy it. Attempts to picture this as sinister are not very helpful to the better understanding of our way of life."

City to Take New Look At Old Plan

A five-year capital construction plan totalling some $3,000,000 is being dusted off and brought up to date at City Hall.

Officials confirmed today that the shelved plan is undergoing a revision in the light of a probable decision by city council next month to borrow funds for capital purposes.

The city has not borrowed since 1949 but faces a choice this year of halting all progress or slapping a huge tax increase of six or seven mills on property owners unless needed projects are amortized. The old capital spending plan, drawn up some 18 months ago by city manager C. C. Wyatt, totalled $3,027,000 for a full range of vital civic projects in all public works fields, parks, traffic arteries and such things as a new No. 2 firehall and a new juvenile detention home.

At the time, Mr. Wyatt pointed out that with city-owned land almost depleted, the "pay as you go policy" had to end because there was virtually no more assets to sell.

The policy had enabled the city to bring its financial house into order so that debt was being steadily reduced. He pointed out that the city now can afford to borrow again for vital projects that cannot be financed out of current taxes.

"The increased debt incurred (by the proposed plan) will not significantly affect the enviable credit position of the city," he said.

"This is illustrated by the fact that over the next five years the city will retire $3,160,000 of its present debt and will over the same period pay off well over $500,000 of the proposed new debt."

A number of the smaller projects proposed in the plan have been undertaken and others have been rejected. The revision of the plan will show council how far it should go in borrowing to keep the mill rate at a relatively stable level.

plan for a loose confederation of sovereign states. Adenauer, 86, said he hopes the six European, Common Market countries will agree on a solution during the coming weeks so that their heads of government can take the first step toward a political union when they meet in Rome in June.

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan refused today to say whether he had proposed for a Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting on Britain's European — Common Market negotiations.

He told the House of Commons it would be discourteous to do this until he had had a reply from all the 12 prime ministers.

Denis Healey, Labor's Commonwealth spokesman, said Macmillan was being "furtive" about the date.
